Congress Kills Mac's Demands

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress' long if not ardent honeymoon with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara appears finally over.

His old mastery was missing as Congress put its foot down twice Wednesday — going its own way on a military pay bill and turning a deaf ear to his strong arguments for a merger of the Army reserves.

The Reserve plan, a particularly pet project, was killed at least for this year by a House Armed Services subcommittee headed by Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La.

Despite McNamara's arguments to the contrary, the subcommittee said the proposed merger would result in "an immediate and serious loss in combat readiness" and is "not in our national interest."

On the other side of Capitol Hill, the Senate was giving an 89-0 approval of a $1-billion military pay bill, much the same as already passed by the House, but more than twice as much as McNamara wanted. The House appeared likely to give quick approval to the Senate version.

A Defense Department statement, not quoting McNamara, said Secretary of the Army Stanley T. Resor and Gen. Harold K. Johnson, chief of staff, both believe the subcommittee's rejection of the merger plan "will compel the Army to retain nonessential units" rather than use the manpower to build up more important forces required by war contingency plans.

Moreover, the statement said "failure to go forward with the realignment will necessarily result in more men being taken out of civilian life into the armed forces."

The statement noted the subcommittee's expressed willingness to consider future reorganizations and said the department "is prepared to continue discussions immediately."

McNamara is said still to have hopes of reviving the plan, or one similar to it, next year.

The proposal that was turned down was to streamline the Reserves by cutting out low priority units and consolidating the high priority ones within the National Guard. When McNamara announced the plan Dec. 12 he expressed belief he needed no other congressional authority than a simple change in the appropriations bill.

Father and Son Team To Graduate from Miami

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Like father, like son.

That's the case of William H. Sharp Sr., 53, and William H. Sharp Jr., 23, father and son from Overpeck in Butler County who will graduate together Aug. 29 from Miami University.

After receiving their bachelor degrees in education, each will begin a teaching job this fall.

Both started their college careers as part-time students in Miami's branch at nearby Hamilton. The son's wife, the former Lynne Flint of Middletown, is also a Miami student and expects to graduate next April.

The elder Sharp, who graduated from high school in Goshen in the depression days of 1930, has been a minister, poultry farmer and operator of a poultry produce market in Hamilton.

The son has helped pay his college expenses by working in the circulation department of the Hamilton Journal-News, doing substitute teaching and working two summers in a Hamilton factory.

While going to school, the father taught at a Middletown

Gunman Robs Lima Shop

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—A robber armed with what was described as a sawed off shotgun made off with at least $200 in cash from Mary Jane's Party Shop near the downtown area today, police reported.

Police said a clerk, Mrs. Mary Hanna, had just opened the shop when the robber walked in and whipped the gun from beneath a jacket he was wearing.

Mrs. Hanna said the robber tried to lock her in a back room before making his getaway but couldn't work the latch on the door. He then fled on foot.

The robber narrowly missed confronting two window washers who were coming into the shop as he ran out.

Several States Expect To Draft College Boys

NEW YORK (AP) — Some Selective Service board say they will tighten rules deferring college students from the draft in the Viet Nam crisis.

Draft boards that have been liberal in giving students deferments in the past say they are going to get tough to meet heavy draft calls beginning next month.

A sampling by The Associated Press of 20 states showed 13 planning to review the status of deferred students. At last two others in the survey are considering such action.

"If we need men to draft, one place we'll look is the college school during 1963 and 1964.

This fall he plans to teach new-method mathematics in the seventh and eighth grades at Mason. He is also pastor of Hickory Flats Church of Christ near Overpeck.

The son plans to teach art in the fifth and sixth grades at Mad River School in Dayton.

Officials Seek Tomato Boom Harvest Aid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State officials say they probably will be able to round up enough migrant workers to help harvest Ohio's booming tomato crop.

"We are not losing any tomatoes due to the shortage of labor," John Stark, Northern Ohio farm placement specialist for the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, said Wednesday.

But the big tomato season is arriving a little sooner than expected, reported Chief of Farm Placement Jim Byrne, and the state is hard pressed to meet grower demands for harvesters.

Byrne said he has recruiters in Wisconsin and Michigan rounding up migrant workers now picking cherries. The cherry season will end in from seven to 10 days, Byrne said, and workers in those states will start pouring into Ohio to start on the tomato crop.

Workers who normally would have been used to harvest the tomatoes are still tied up with cucumbers, he said. And with the tomato crop coming a little early, farm officials are pressed for enough workers, Byrne added.

In the meantime, he reported, Ohio will shift its current migrant labor supply between harvesting cucumbers and the surging tomato crops until the cherry season ends in Wisconsin and Michigan.

31 Get Hurt In California Street Fight

Drunk's Arrest Leads to Melee In Neighborhood

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An uneasy calm settled today over a Negro neighborhood torn for eight hours Wednesday night by a rioting crowd of 1,500.

A crowd gathered when a white policeman arrested a Negro and accused him of drunken driving. The crowd got out of hand after the man was jailed.

Hoisting, jeering young people — inspired, according to one officer, by general rebellion against authority rather than any specific cause — threw stones, bottles and bricks at policemen, passing cars and bystanders.

More than 100 police finally restored order before dawn. Sixteen officers and at least 15 civilians were injured, none seriously. Scores of cars and several buildings were damaged, and there was some looting. And 26 persons were booked on various charges, 11 of them juveniles.

This morning the scene, in the almost solidly Negro community of Watts on Los Angeles' Southeast Side, was littered with broken glass, stones, bricks and boards.

Knots of young Negroes stood on corners, or strolled up and down, discussing Wednesday night's excitement and speculating about tonight.

One teen-ager, who wouldn't give his name, told a newsman: "Anyone with any sense will stay out of here tonight, because we're really going to show those cops."

California Highway Patrol Officer Lee Minikus said the affair began when he investigated a citizen's complaining of a reckless driver and halted a car at 122nd Street and Avalon Boulevard about 7:45 p.m.

Minikus said he arrested Marquette Frye, 21, and gave him a sobriety test which he failed. Twenty or 30 persons gathered, he said, but all was peaceful until Frye's mother, Mrs. Rena (Continued on Page Two)

Gemini To Try Space Hook-Up

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Most of the excitement and suspense of next week's Gemini 5 flight may be packed into the first six hours when Air Force Lt. Col. L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr., will attempt the world's first space rendezvous with a satellite they call the "Little Rascal."

In disclosing details of the flight plan today, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the rendezvous maneuver would be conducted from the second to the fifth orbits. It will be a rehearsal for the Gemini 6 flight scheduled in October, during which Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr., and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford are to try to link up their spacecraft with another satellite.

The space agency said the flight was scheduled to start Thursday at 9 a.m. (EST) from Cape Kennedy, with a Titan 2 rocket serving as the booster. Gemini 5 is to settle initially into an orbit ranging from 100 to 219 miles high — 43 miles higher than any U.S. astronaut has flown, but short of the Soviet record of 307 miles.

The flight is to last 191 hours 53 minutes, just seven minutes shy of eight days and will end with a landing in the western Atlantic, about 500 miles south west of Bermuda. Cooper and Conrad are to circle the globe 121 times.

The time would break the world record of 4 days 23 hours 6 minutes, held by Soviet cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky. The U.S. record, set in June by Air Force Lt. Col. James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II, is just one minute short of four days.

Cooper, who made a 34-hour flight in the Mercury program and who seeks to be the first man to orbit twice, and Conrad will carry their rendezvous satellite with them, packing it in an equipment section at the base of the spacecraft. The satellite is called REP for Radar Evaluation Pod.

During orbit No. 2, 2 hours and 7 minutes after launching, Cooper will press a switch and explosive devices will kick the 76-pound REP into a separate orbit alongside Gemini 5.

Then command pilot Cooper will switch the Gemini 5 orbit so the craft gradually falls behind the satellite to a distance of about 52 miles. Then, using a radar system, an on-board com-

Police Seek 5th Member Of Nazi Club

CLEVELAND (AP) — Police sought today a member of a young, self-styled Nazi group, which went on a two-month burglary spree and caused an unestimated amount of damage to an elementary school in suburban Eastlake.

Police arrested four members of the gang Wednesday. The boys range in age from 15 to 17. They told police they read Nazi literature and patterned their group after the Nazi party.

Two of the boys were arrested after police followed them from a store to a shack behind one of the youths' homes. Eastlake Police Chief David W. Dougherty said the youth identified two others who were arrested at their homes. A fifth boy was being sought.

Dougherty said the boys admitted throwing a homemade gasoline bomb at an entrance to Longfellow Elementary School in an attempt to blast through a door. He said the bomb failed to go off, but started a fire. The boys also admitted shooting out 68 windows in the school, he said.

The chief said all the boys seemed to have good parents and nice homes.

puter and jet thrusters, Cooper will begin chasing the REP across the skies. If there are no hitches, he should catch it during orbit No. 4 moving to within 20 feet of it.

Gemini 5 will circle the REP for nearly an hour so that Conrad can photograph it from various angles.

The radar system, elements of which are in both the spacecraft and the REP, is identical to that which Chirra and Stafford will use for the Gemini 6 docking maneuver.

After completing the rendezvous, Cooper and Conrad will settle down to the long haul in space — on a flight which equals the roundtrip time planned for the first team of moon-bound United States astronauts.

Suit Tests New Federal Voting Law

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An attack on the constitutionality of the new federal voting rights law has been filed in a Louisiana federal court and the state's attorney general hints there may be a second test suit.

Gov. John J. McKeithen says he thinks the suit challenging the law—designed primarily to open registration rolls in the deep South to Negroes—has a good chance.

The Orleans Parish voter registrar, A.P. Gallinghouse, filed the test suit in U.S. District court here Wednesday.

State Atty. Gen. Jack P. F. Gremlion met here Wednesday with a number of the state's district attorneys to discuss the voting law after saying he planned two suits.

He left the meeting without further comment but a source indicated Gremlion would file "some type of suit aimed at the law."

Parents Get Silver Star

WASHINGTON (AP) — The parents of a Bay Village Naval lieutenant killed in Viet Nam April 5 received the Silver Star won by their son for conspicuous gallantry.

The posthumous award was made Wednesday to Lt. William M. Barschow, 27, of Bay Village. The medal was presented to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert K. Barschow, by Paul H. Nitze, secretary of the Navy.

Nitze told the officer's parents that on a visit to South Viet Nam he was told Lt. Barschow's combat exploits "had become a legend among the people there."

Congress Kills Mac's Demands

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress' long if not ardent honeymoon with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara appears finally over.

His old mastery was missing as Congress put its foot down twice Wednesday — going its own way on a military pay bill and turning a deaf ear to his strong arguments for a merger of the Army reserves.

The Reserve plan, a particularly pet project, was killed at least for this year by a House Armed Services subcommittee headed by Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La.

Despite McNamara's arguments to the contrary, the subcommittee said the proposed merger would result in "an immediate and serious loss in combat readiness" and is "not in our national interest."

On the other side of Capitol Hill, the Senate was giving an 89-0 approval of a $1-billion military pay bill, much the same as already passed by the House, but more than twice as much as McNamara wanted. The House appeared likely to give quick approval to the Senate version.

A Defense Department statement, not quoting McNamara, said Secretary of the Army Stanley T. Resor and Gen. Harold K. Johnson, chief of staff, both believe the subcommittee's rejection of the merger plan "will compel the Army to retain nonessential units" rather than use the manpower to build up more important forces required by war contingency plans.

Moreover, the statement said "failure to go forward with the realignment will necessarily result in more men being taken out of civilian life into the armed forces."

The statement noted the subcommittee's expressed willingness to consider future reorganizations and said the department "is prepared to continue discussions immediately."

McNamara is said still to have hopes of reviving the plan, or one similar to it, next year.

The proposal that was turned down was to streamline the Reserves by cutting out low priority units and consolidating the high priority ones within the National Guard. When McNamara announced the plan Dec. 12 he expressed belief he needed no other congressional authority than a simple change in the appropriations bill.

Force Visits Drought Area

Teams Organize To Assist Cities

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal water crisis team heads into the drought-stricken North-east today to begin laying out a systematic program for solving an acute water shortage.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall and Lt. Gen. W. F. Cassidy, chief of the Army Engineers, head the team which has meetings scheduled at Philadelphia and Camden, N. J. and New York City Friday.

Follow-up teams of about a half dozen men each will be set up in each city to continue working with state and local officials on drought problems.

This was the machinery ordered Wednesday by President Johnson during a White House conference of governors, mayors, members of Congress and other officials from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware called to discuss the four years of drought.

"This is a time for action — federal, state and local, public and private," Johnson said.

He announced measures to mobilize federal aid for longer range projects including a $4-million water resources planning survey for the entire Northeast from Maine to Virginia and speedups in reservoir projects in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Johnson also signed a bill authorizing a $185-million speedup in the program to convert salt and brackish water to fresh water.

Udall and Cassidy met for more than an hour following the White House meeting with dozens of state and local officials from the drought area to set up the machinery for implementing the President's plan.

"We want to lay out a systematic program," Udall said. "We presumably will come up with some hard decisions."

The first step for the task force, Udall said, will be to gather all the information possible on the water shortage, what's being done about it and the supplies which are available through next March 15 when the spring runoff normally begins.

Although more federal money probably will be needed, Udall said the cities and states also will play an expanded role in the solutions to the problem to be recommended to the President.

Johnson asked his Water Resources Council which Udall heads to keep in daily touch with officials of the four states represented at the White House conference. He said he is prepared to take whatever additional steps the council deems necessary.

Miss American Beauty entered the contest as Miss Ohio. She is from Richmond Heights, a Cleveland suburb.

Pepple Says Gray Refused Rhodes' Deal

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Sen. Ross Pepple, R-Allen, says approval of the $280 million capital improvements bill was sidetracked in the Ohio Legislature Tuesday by the refusal of Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray to accept a compromise agreement between Pepple and Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Pepple said he and Rhodes reached agreement at a meeting Tuesday morning on the Lima Republican's controversial $4.5 million amendment to the bill.

He said the agreement called for adding the $4.5 million for community colleges and university branches from funds yet unallocated instead of diverting the money from airport development and Ohio Historical Society allotments, as Pepple originally had proposed.

Pepple pointed out that of the $290 million bond issue passed by voters last spring, about $10 million remains unencumbered. With the compromise, the appropriation bill would be raised to $284.5 million, still leaving $5.5 million of the bond issue money untouched, he said.

Pepple said he and Rhodes worked out the compromise "within three minutes" at the Tuesday morning meeting, but Gray refused to accept it during the legislative session that night.

However, Pepple said he was confident the legislature would pass the capital improvements bill, including his amendment, when it reconvenes Aug. 31.

Ohio Crops Estimated

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio's estimated corn production for grain this year was estimated at 230,958,000 bushels or 78 bushels per acre in the forecast announced recently by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Other Ohio crop estimates were: Winter wheat, 31 bushels per acre and production of 38,316,000 bushels; oats, 54 bushels per acre and production of 34,182,000 bushels; soybeans for beans, 23 bushels per acre and production of 49,634,000 bushels; tobacco, 1,975 pounds per acre and production of 24,690,000 pounds; sugar beets, 15 tons per acre and production of 435,000 tons; apples, 3,400,000 bushels. Ohio is also expected to produce 18,600,000 pounds of burley tobacco compared to last year's 17,480,000.

Father and Son Team To Graduate from Miami

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Like father, like son.

That's the case of William H. Sharp Sr., 53, and William H. Sharp Jr., 23, father and son from Overpeck in Butler County who will graduate together Aug. 29 from Miami University.

After receiving their bachelor degrees in education, each will begin a teaching job this fall.

Both started their college careers as part-time students in Miami's branch at nearby Hamilton. The son's wife, the former Lynne Flint of Middletown, is also a Miami student and expects to graduate next April.

The elder Sharp, who graduated from high school in Goshen in the depression days of 1930, has been a minister, poultry farmer and operator of a poultry produce market in Hamilton.

The son has helped pay his college expenses by working in the circulation department of the Hamilton Journal-News, doing substitute teaching and working two summers in a Hamilton factory.

While going to school, the father taught at a Middletown

Gunman Robs Lima Shop

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—A robber armed with what was described as a sawed off shotgun made off with at least $200 in cash from Mary Jane's Party Shop near the downtown area today, police reported.

Police said a clerk, Mrs. Mary Hanna, had just opened the shop when the robber walked in and whipped the gun from beneath a jacket he was wearing.

Mrs. Hanna said the robber tried to lock her in a back room before making his getaway but couldn't work the latch on the door. He then fled on foot.

The robber narrowly missed confronting two window washers who were coming into the shop as he ran out.

Several States Expect To Draft College Boys

NEW YORK (AP) — Some Selective Service board say they will tighten rules deferring college students from the draft in the Viet Nam crisis.

Draft boards that have been liberal in giving students deferments in the past say they are going to get tough to meet heavy draft calls beginning next month.

A sampling by The Associated Press of 20 states showed 13 planning to review the status of deferred students. At last two others in the survey are considering such action.

"If we need men to draft, one place we'll look is the college classroom," said Lt. Col. Wayne Rhodes, deputy state director of the Indiana Selective Service System.

The look to the campus came after President Johnson ordered the monthly draft jumped from 17,000 to 35,000 men by November.

The Pentagon said the September draft will be 27,400 and the October draft call will be 33,900. The Navy will get 4,600 of the October draftees — the first time in nine years enlistments have failed to produce enough new men.

The quotas are the highest since the Korean War, when 80,

Drunk's Arrest Leads to Melee In Neighborhood

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An uneasy calm settled today over a Negro neighborhood torn for eight hours Wednesday night by a rioting crowd of 1,500.

A crowd gathered when a white policeman arrested a Negro and accused him of drunk-driving. The crowd got out of hand after the man was jailed.

Hooting, jeering young people — inspired, according to one officer, by general rebellion against authority rather than any specific cause — threw stones, bottles and bricks at policemen, passing cars and bystanders.

More than 100 police finally restored order before dawn. Sixteen officers and at least 15 civilians were injured, none seriously. Scores of cars and several buildings were damaged, and there was some looting. And 26 persons were booked on various charges, 11 of them juveniles.

This morning the scene, in the almost solidly Negro community of Watts on Los Angeles' Southeast Side, was littered with broken glass, stones, bricks and boards.

Knots of young Negroes stood on corners, or strolled up and down, discussing Wednesday night's excitement and speculating about tonight.

One teen-ager, who wouldn't give his name, told a newsman: "Anyone with any sense will stay out of here tonight, because we're really going to show those cops."

California Highway Patrol Officer Lee Minikus said the affair began when he investigated a citizen's complaining of a reckless driver and halted a car at 122nd Street and Avalon Boulevard about 7:45 p.m.

Minikus said he arrested Marquette Frye, 21, and gave him a sobriety test which he failed. Twenty or 30 persons gathered, he said, but all was peaceful until Frye's mother, Mrs. Rena (Continued on Page Two)

Auditor Reports Cities Earnings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Reports filed with State Auditor Chester W. Goble show Ohio's 195 cities had a total income of $1,112,686,468 during the 1964 calendar year.

Total real estate tax valuation of the cities was more than $19 billion, of which the eight major cities accounted for more than $9 billion, or 49.1 per cent.

The eight cities and their tax valuations were: Akron, $875,500,000; Canton, $317,979,540; Cincinnati, $1,617,490,990; Cleveland, $2,951,577,056; Columbus, $1293,584,190; Dayton, $861,785,400; Toledo, $1,074,344,620; and Youngstown $488,699,040.

Gemini To Try Space Hook-Up

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Most of the excitement and suspense of next week's Gemini 5 flight may be packed into the first six hours when Air Force Lt. Col. L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr., will attempt the world's first space rendezvous with a satellite they call the "Little Rascal."

In disclosing details of the flight plan today, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the rendezvous maneuver would be conducted from the second to the fifth orbits. It will be a rehearsal for the Gemini 6 flight scheduled in October, during which Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr., and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford are to try to link up their spacecraft with another satellite.

The space agency said the flight was scheduled to start Thursday at 9 a.m. (EST) from Cape Kennedy, with a Titan 2 rocket serving as the booster. Gemini 5 is to settle initially into an orbit ranging from 100 to 219 miles high — 43 miles higher than any U.S. astronaut has flown, but short of the Soviet record of 307 miles.

The flight is to last 191 hours 53 minutes, just seven minutes shy of eight days and will end with a landing in the western Atlantic, about 500 miles south west of Bermuda. Cooper and Conrad are to circle the globe 121 times.

The time would break the world record of 4 days 23 hours 6 minutes, held by Soviet cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky. The U.S. record, set in June by Air Force Lt. Col. James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II, is just one minute short of four days.

Cooper, who made a 34-hour flight in the Mercury program and who seeks to be the first man to orbit twice, and Conrad will carry their rendezvous satellite with them, packing it in an equipment section at the base of the spacecraft. The satellite is called REP for Radar Evaluation Pod.

During orbit No. 2, 2 hours and 7 minutes after launching, Cooper will press a switch and explosive devices will kick the 76-pound REP into a separate orbit alongside Gemini 5.

Then command pilot Cooper will switch the Gemini 5 orbit so the craft gradually falls behind the satellite to a distance of about 52 miles. Then, using a radar system, an on-board com-

Police Seek 5th Member Of Nazi Club

CLEVELAND (AP) — Police sought today a member of a young, self-styled Nazi group which went on a two-month burglary spree and caused an unestimated amount of damage to an elementary school in suburban Eastlake.

Police arrested four members of the gang Wednesday. The boys range in age from 15 to 17. They told police they read Nazi literature and patterned their group after the Nazi party.

Two of the boys were arrested after police followed them from a store to a shack behind one of the youths' homes. Eastlake Police Chief David W. Dougherty said the youth identified two others who were arrested at their homes. A fifth boy was being sought.

Dougherty said the boys admitted throwing a homemade gasoline bomb at an entrance to Longfellow Elementary School in an attempt to blast through a door. He said the bomb failed to go off, but started a fire. The boys also admitted shooting out 68 windows in the school, he said.

The chief said all the boys seemed to have good parents and nice homes.

puter and jet thrusters, Cooper will begin chasing the REP across the skies. If there are no hitches, he should catch it during orbit No. 4 moving to within 20 feet of it.

Gemini 5 will circle the REP for nearly an hour so that Conrad can photograph it from various angles.

The radar system, elements of which are in both the spacecraft and the REP, is identical to that which Schirra and Stafford will use for the Gemini 6 docking maneuver.

The radar system, elements of which are in both the spacecraft and the TEP, is identical to that which Schirra and Stafford will use for the Gemini 6 docking maneuver.

After completing the rendezvous, Cooper and Conrad will settle down to the long haul in space — on a flight which equals the roundtrip time planned for the first team of moon-bound United States astronauts.

Suit Tests New Federal Voting Law

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An attack on the constitutionality of the new federal voting rights law has been filed in a Louisiana federal court and the state's attorney general hints there may be a second test suit.

Gov. John J. McKeithen says he thinks the suit challenging the law—designed primarily to open registration rolls in the deep South to Negroes—has a good chance.

The Orleans Parish voter registrar, A.P. Gallingshouse, filed the test suit in U.S. District court here Wednesday.

State Atty. Gen. Jack P. F. Gremillion met here Wednesday with a number of the state's district attorneys to discuss the voting law after saying he planned two suits.

He left the meeting without further comment but a source indicated Gremillion would file "some type of suit aimed at the law."

Parents Get Silver Star

WASHINGTON (AP) — The parents of a Bay Village Naval lieutenant killed in Viet Nam April 5 received the Silver Star won by their son for conspicuous gallantry.

The posthumous award was made Wednesday to Lt. William M. Barschow, 27, of Bay Village. The medal was presented to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert K. Barschow, by Paul H. Nitze, secretary of the Navy.

Nitze told the officer's parents that on a visit to South Viet Nam he was told Lt. Barschow's combat exploits "had become a legend among the people there."

Lt. Barschow had taken part in 53 combat missions deep into Viet Cong territory the year before his death. He was killed while breaking up a Viet Cong ambush on his river convoy. Nitze said Lt. Barschow's action was responsible for a major victory causing 250 enemy deaths.

Bomb Explodes On Tavern Sill

CLEVELAND (AP)—A dynamite bomb exploded early today outside a West Side tavern that had been closed more than two hours, police said. Nobody was hurt.

Members of the police scientific investigation unit said the blast was set off on the sill of a rear window at the Silver Grill on West 130th St. The window opened into a storage area.

Youths Held For Theft

Four Chillicothe juveniles have been arrested by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department in connection with a series of recent thefts at Decree Creek Auto Parts, Williamsport.

The youths, ages 16 and 17, were picked up by Sheriff Dwight Radcliff and Deputy George Linder on information received from the Chillicothe Police Department.

Sheriff Radcliff said all the auto parts taken, valued at $250, have been recovered.

He indicated charges will be filed in Pickaway County Juvenile Court. Three of the youths will be charged with theft, the fourth with receiving and concealing stolen articles.

Hounds Get Guard Duty

NEW YORK (AP) — The Bronx Zoo, a big showcase for animals, announced today it is going to put some of them to work — guarding others from human beings. They'll also guard humans from the animals.

The duty will be done by the dogs.

The zoo said its going to use them to protect the other beasts, which lately have come under increasing attacks and brutal vandalism by people.

Police dogs, as well as armed guards, were being assigned to nightly patrols, on the lookout for trespassers and molesters.

Back Injury Suffered in Car Crash

Mrs. Dorothy M. Swingle, 59, of Ashville, suffered a back injury yesterday when her car veered out of control on the Harrisburg-Fairfield Road west of the Circleville - Lockbourne Road.

She was taken to Mercy Hospital, Columbus. Investigating officer George Linder of the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department said the injured woman apparently lost control of the car after negotiating a left turn.

The auto was extensively damaged, officers said.

Patrol Nabs Driver on Gun Count

The State Highway Patrol arrested a St. Louis, Mo., man last night for carrying a concealed weapon.

The OSP indicated Johnnet De Marsay, 33, may also be charged with auto larceny by federal authorities.

De Marsay was stopped on Route 23 for speeding by Patrolman L. N. Hostetter. During the course of the apprehension, Hostetter discovered the St. Louis man was carrying a concealed .38 caliber handgun, fully loaded.

De Marsay admitted stealing the car he was driving, patrolmen said. The Federal Bureau of Investigation has been called in and is continuing further investigation.

The auto supposedly was transported across state lines giving federal courts jurisdiction in the matter.

Frye, 49, arrived and began to berate her son.

Then, the patrolman said, Frye refused to submit to arrest, swung at him, the mother jumped on his back and tore his shirt, and the crowd swelled to 200 and began shouting and cursing.

Minikus said another officer produced a sawed-off shotgun, the crowd retreated, and the officers left the scene with the Fries.

The crowd kept growing, became unruly, and soon rocks were flying at other police called to the scene before Minikus left.

The rocks were flying at any car, including those driven by Negroes.

The outbreak appeared completely spontaneous. There had been no previous similar outbreaks in the area. It came on a hot, sultry night—temperatures were in the mid-90s during the day and cooled only slightly after dark—that drew many people into the evening air.

Deputy Police Chief Roger E. Murdock said many Negroes among the injured were hurt by flying objects.

With quiet restored after about eight hours of fighting, frightened residents huddled in their homes, peeking through curtained windows at streets littered with shattered glass, rocks and other debris. Bystanders had been attacked, auto windows smashed and some stores looted.

A Negro youth waiting at a nearby police station for his parents to pick him up was asked what the thought caused the riot.

"Gosh, I don't know, but I suppose they'll be doing it again tonight. Some of the fellows said they're going to," said the youth who declined to give his name.

A police sergeant who asked that his name be withheld said the sparks that ignited the melee was not smoldering race hatred but defiance of authority.

As the riot increased in violence early today, a television station's 1965 station wagon mobile unit was overturned and burned. Police said rioters attacked fire units at the scene, breaking windshields with rocks and bottles.

Murdock said 40 squad cars with 100 officers were dispatched to the scene with orders to arrest persons "for any violations they see."

Residents of the suburban Watts neighborhood told police that many of the rioters were breaking store and apartment windows and some looting was reported.

Murdock said the riot started out 7 p. m. when a California Highway Patrol officer arrested a Negro on suspicion of drunken driving. He said a crowd gathered as the suspect's mother began arguing with officers and then erupted in violence when she was arrested.

Police said at least 50 vehicles were damaged, including a bus that had nearly all of its windows broken.

Marquette Frye, 21, driver of the car stopped by highway patrolmen, was booked on suspicion of drunken driving, battery on a police officer and resisting arrest.

His brother, Ronald, 22, a passenger in the vehicle, also was booked on suspicion of battery on an officer and on interfering with an officer.

Their mother, Rena, 49, also was booked on suspicion of interfering with a police officer.

Teacher Summer Activity Varies

SUMMER AND WEEKENDS — Mrs. Janet Boggs' summer employment is a little more than a three-month break from school and guidance counselling. Mrs. Boggs operates The Children's Shop and The Deb Shop with her husband, Charles, daughter Doty and sister, Mrs. Dorothy Jones.

Ever wonder what you would do if you had a three-month vacation every summer? Most school teachers are confronted with this "problem" in the spring.

When June rolls around, the majority of teachers put away their classroom techniques and take advantage of their "vacation" in one way or another.

Many supplement their incomes by taking on summer jobs. Some go back to school to further their own education while others take on other teaching jobs. And still another group has a real vacation by travelling and visiting.

On the other hand, however, most people don't realize that the school administration is a year around operation. The principal's office is no longer just a place for sending the tardy or delinquent student. It's business operation is emphasized and class schedules, staff revisions and the like are worked out during the three-month period.

THE superintendent's office, clerk's office and business manager's office usually buzz with activity throughout the summer as well as the months school is in session.

Several teachers have businesses of their own entirely independent of their profession. But most settle for summer employment in a completely different setting than they are accustomed to for three fourths of the year.

For example, Circleville High School's head football coach, Paul Starr, has been selling autos this summer for Kenny Hanan Ford, Inc.

Starr's summer job terminates a little earlier than most. He will begin coaching this year's football squad within a few days.

The local Du Pont plant offers a chance for some teachers to supplement their incomes. At least two CHS teachers are working there. They are Richard Fisher and Clair Saam. John L. Chilcote, principal at

S. Court St., has his own painting contract business during the summer. In fact, many times other teachers join his ladder staff from June through August.

ANOTHER of the local firms that draws summer work from teachers is the J. B. Stout Co. Construction crews this summer included several students as well as Steve Brudzinski and Phil Everett.

Whether the summer break means a vacation or working at construction, in an office or in a factory, teachers are happy to get back to their "chosen career" by the time September rolls around.

Business Briefs

G. C. Murphy Co. net earnings for the first six months increased, despite a relatively small gain in sales from fewer stores, it was announced today.

The company reported earnings of $2,462,218, or 59 cents a share compared with $2,420,578, or 58 cents a share. At June 30 there were 511 stores in operation, compared with 513 a year ago.

In the first six months the modernization program was continued, five stores were opened and four were closed. Fifteen new units are presently under construction or contract.

Sales for July increased 10.6 per cent, indicating economic improvement in operating areas. Officials said this trend is expected to continue and to contribute substantially toward further improvement in earnings for the latter half of the year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Agriculture Committee has approved construction of a $1,307,105 watershed project on 32,150 acres in Ohio's Noble and Guernsey counties along Buffalo Creek. Federal share of the cost is $746,268.

Teens Urged To Watch Their Figures

Today's teens are so busy they barely have time to hold hands. Constantly on the go, they rush from classes to extracurricular activities, football games, dates and part-time jobs.

It's not their hands that suffer, however. Often, it's their stomachs — and figures, too.

For many of today's teens are notorious "junk" eaters. Skipping meals, they nibble on empty calories of potato chips, french fries, soft drinks, etc. Such fare may be responsible for the fact that at least 1 per cent of all teen-agers are overweight — and almost one-third of the high school co-eds are trying to do something about it.

This fear of overweight can frequently lead teen-agers to pass up essential foods. What's the answer? It's not in skipping meals. Instead of running off to school on an empty stomach, a wise teen should try using a nutritious quickie-meal such as Metrecol for breakfast. It's also a good substitute for those potato chips and candy bar lunches.

But for social reasons, most teens snack. In fact, one-quarter of the daily food most teenagers eat is at snack time and many of these typical snacks are heavily loaded with calories: 10 french fries count 155 calories; 10 potato chips, 110; one doughnut, 135; and a chocolate milk shake, 520.

No teen will want to eliminate snacks, entirely — it stifles the social life. Down at the corner drug store or snack shop, a dietetic soft drink may be the answer. As a study break at home, fresh fruit or celery and carrot sticks will provide healthful but low-caloried snacks.

Cincinnati Sues Parents for Cost

CINCINNATI (AP) — Officials said it cost $14,118 to defend the Cincinnati Board of Education in a discrimination suit filed against the board by parents of 45 Negro children.

The board filed the costs Wednesday with the U. S. District Court, and named the parents as debtors.

The suit was dismissed against the board Tuesday by Judge John W. Peck, who said the parents failed to show their children were deprived of any rights. The parents said the board had allowed de facto segregation in city schools.

Thousands of acres of private woodlands across the U. S. are improved yearly through the individual efforts of some 80,000 boys and girls who participate in the forest-industry-sponsored 4-H Forestry Awards program.

Teacher Summer Activity Varies

SUMMER AND WEEKENDS — Mrs. Janet Boggs' summer employment is a little more than a three-month break from school and guidance counselling. Mrs. Boggs operates The Children's Shop and The Deb Shop with her husband, Charles, daughter Doty and sister, Mrs. Dorothy Jones.

Ever wonder what you would do if you had a three-month vacation every summer? Most school teachers are confronted with this "problem" in the spring.

When June rolls around, the majority of teachers put away their classroom techniques and take advantage of their "vacation" in one way or another.

Many supplement their incomes by taking on summer jobs. Some go back to school to further their own education while others take on other teaching jobs. And still another group has a real vacation by travelling and visiting.

On the other hand, however, most people don't realize that the school administration is a year around operation. The principal's office is no longer just a place for sending the tardy or delinquent student. Its business operation is emphasized and class schedules, staff revisions and the like are worked out during the three-month period.

THE superintendent's office, clerk's office and business manager's office usually buzz with activity throughout the summer as well as the months school is in session.

Several teachers have businesses of their own entirely independent of their profession. But most settle for summer employment in a completely different setting than they are accustomed to for three fourths of the year.

For example, Circleville High School's head football coach, Paul Starr, has been selling autos this summer for Kenny Hannan Ford, Inc.

Starr's summer job terminates a little earlier than most. He will begin coaching this year's football squad within a few days.

The local Du Pont plant offers a chance for some teachers to supplement their incomes. At least two CHS teachers are working there. They are Richard Fisher and Clair Saam.

John L. Chilcote, principal at

S. Court St., has his own painting contract business during the summer. In fact, many times other teachers join his ladder staff from June through August.

ANOTHER of the local firms that draws summer work from teachers is the J. B. Stout Co. Construction crews this summer included several students as well as Steve Brudzinski and Phil Everett.

Whether the summer break means a vacation or working at construction, in an office or in a factory, teachers are happy to get back to their "chosen career" by the time September rolls around.

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

To the Editor:

In a recent issue of this paper the public was informed of the effort on the part of the Pickaway County Contractors Assn. to obtain a workable building code for this community. An adoption of a code requires the approval of City Council and the passing of an ordinance.

It was stated that Council wants public opinion before taking further action on the proposal. This letter is an opinion.

It is my opinion that a building code for this community is long overdue. The admonition: Caveat emptor — "Let the buyer beware" has considerable meaning to the people here, a truth which I shall attempt to make evident in this letter.

On buying a home, whether an old one or a new one, how many have wished they had some knowing person along who could evaluate the anticipated purchase? Someone trained in the construction and building trades? Someone who could go over the place from attic to basement and pass his judgment on to you? I am sure such a wish has occurred to many people, especially to those who are about to sink a fortune into a piece of property.

Since such aid is not always at hand, therefore, we buy pretty much on a "pig in a poke" gamble.

To understand this gamble, the public must be made aware of conditions existing here, conditions that will compound in the future if an inspection system is not put into effect.

Having worked in the building and construction trades for several years, I think I am in some measure qualified to pass judgment on such matters and to pass my findings on to you.

The following are some of those findings:

I have found many instances of sanitary sewers tapped into storm sewers and noted the complications that followed—the most evident, the flooding of basements in times of heavy rains. I have seen drain-pipes running downhill toward the fixtures to be drained. I have seen improper fittings and pipe used in plumbing systems that are conducive to waste stoppages and the impedance of proper water supply. I know of septic tanks being installed without leeching beds.

The inadequacy of electrical systems have become evident from time to time. I have seen new homes wired wherein there was not one junction box used. The improper balancing of circuits is a common fault, along with wire of a gauge too small for the load it is expected to carry. The danger of electrical shock due to improper grounding, or none at all, is a common fault found in the installation of appliances, etc.

Improper drainage under concrete floors of basements and the lack of water-proofing behind their walls are slights that become obvious during wet spells.

The cracking and settling of foundations and walkways are faults that can be laid to a lack of inspection during the process of installation.

One could go on ad infinitum offering proof to support the contention that a code and inspection system is very much needed in this community.

When it is considered that any Tom, Dick or Harry can go about unrestricted, presenting himself to the public as a mechanic or artisan, it can be understood how it was possible for an elderly lady here to be "taken" for several thousand dollars a year or so ago.

In view of the facts I have presented in this letter — facts which many of our local citizens learned the hard way — I urge that we give our support to the Contractors Assn. Under a building code we have nothing to lose and everything to gain.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

IN THE good old days, recalls Robert Bloch, writing a movie mystery or serial was comparative child's play. All you had to do was to find a heroine—Ruth Roland or Pearl White, for example —who could wear riding breeches. The head villain always wore a felt hat (unless he was a gorilla), his henchmen always wore caps, and the heroine usually could escape via any one of fourteen secret panels.

Then came the era of housekeepers with candles that cast strange shadows on the walls and detectives named Philo or Nero who never stopped talking. They gave way in turn to Bogartian tough guys, Hitchcock psychopaths, and Oriental masterminds. Today James Bond has put them all in the shade—and to really "dig" a whodunit film you've got to know what's what in wines, mens' cravats, sports cars, and international diplomacy.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What are the signs of appendicitis?

Mr. M. M., Illinois
Dear Mr. M.: Inflammation or infections of the appendix have signs recognizable by the physician. The patient himself has symptoms.

Now why do I avoid outlining the symptoms of this condition? Symptoms of appendicitis can resemble many other simple or even more complicated intestinal disorders. Here are a few of the usual complaints:

Pain and cramps of the abdomen.

Nausea and vomiting.

Fever and malaise.

Certainly this combination in any grouping is not sufficient reason for assuming that one has appendicitis.

The diagnosis of this condition often needs the most astute judgment of the physician and surgeon.

Appendicitis can be confused with many other abdominal disorders.

A firm rule and a safe one is that no laxative or enemas be given to anyone who has abdominal pain without specific medical instructions.

I am nearing 40 years of age and have just learned that I may have chronic glomerulonephritis, following an acute attack of kidney disease.

Could you give me some idea of how this disease progresses and what I may expect in the future in regard to the illness.

Is there any special diet or other means which would help to control this disease? I have not been given any medicine to take or any rules to follow.

Mrs. M.E.M., Florida

Dear Mrs. M.: Glomerulonephritis is an inflammation or infection of the kidneys. It is one of several forms of Bright's disease.

The usual cause of this type of nephritis or kidney (nephron) disease is an acute infection elsewhere in the body.

The streptococcus bacteria produce a toxin or poison which sometimes can cause slight damage of the kidneys.

An attack of acute nephritis does not, however, mean that you are to be an invalid or are to be left with permanent after-effects of the illness.

Modern antibiotic treatment has markedly reduced the severity of acute attacks and their complications.

"How does this disease progress?" indicates your fears that it will progress. With care, rigid diet and medications, there is no need for you to live in dread of future attacks.

You may "expect" to live a completely healthy life without any special restrictions of activity.

The fact that you have not been given any diet or medicine must indicate to you that your condition is not serious.

If your physician were concerned about you, you would have been given diets, antibiotics, cortisones and all the advantages of modern treatment.

Patients must remember that the physician's decision "to give no medicine" is as carefully calculated as writing a prescription.

Obviously you have not availed yourself of one of your doctor's important drugs—assurance. This can only be obtained by asking the questions that concern you. Only in this way can you be relieved of the fears that unnecessarily beset you.

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

To the Editor:

In a recent issue of this paper the public was informed of the effort on the part of the Pickaway County Contractors Assn. to obtain a workable building code for this community. An adoption of a code requires the approval of City Council and the passing of an ordinance.

It was stated that Council wants public opinion before taking further action on the proposal. This letter is an opinion.

It is my opinion that a building code for this community is long overdue. The admonition: Caveat emptor — "Let the buyer beware" has considerable meaning to the people here, a truth which I shall attempt to make evident in this letter.

On buying a home, whether an old one or a new one, how many have wished they had some knowing person along who could evaluate the anticipated purchase? Someone trained in the construction and building trades? Someone who could go over the place from attic to basement and pass his judgment on to you? I am sure such a wish has occurred to many people, especially to those who are about to sink a fortune into a piece of property.

Since such aid is not always at hand, therefore, we buy pretty much on a "pig in a poke" gamble.

To understand this gamble, the public must be made aware of conditions existing here, conditions that will compound in the future if an inspection system is not put into effect.

Having worked in the building and construction trades for several years, I think I am in some measure qualified to pass judgment on such matters and to pass my findings on to you.

The following are some of those findings:

I have found many instances of sanitary sewers tapped into storm sewers and noted the complications that followed—the most evident, the flooding of basements in times of heavy rains. I have seen drain-pipes running downhill toward the fixtures to be drained. I have seen improper fittings and pipe used in plumbing systems that are conducive to waste stoppages and the impedance of proper water supply. I know of septic tanks being installed without leaching beds.

The inadequacy of electrical systems have become evident from time to time. I have seen new homes wired wherein there was not one junction box used. The improper balancing of circuits is a common fault, along with wire of a gauge too small for the load it is expected to carry. The danger of electrical shock due to improper grounding, or none at all, is a common fault found in the installation of appliances, etc.

Improper drainage under concrete floors of basements and the lack of water-proofing behind their walls are slights that become obvious during wet spells.

The cracking and settling of foundations and walkways are faults that can be laid to a lack of inspection during the process of installation.

One could go on ad infinitum offering proof to support the contention that a code and inspection system is very much needed in this community.

When it is considered that any Tom, Dick or Harry can go about unrestricted, presenting himself to the public as a mechanic or artisan, it can be understood how it was possible for an elderly lady here to be "taken" for several thousand dollars a year or so ago.

In view of the facts I have presented in this letter — facts which many of our local citizens learned the hard way — I urge that we give our support to the Contractors Assn. Under a building code we have nothing to lose and everything to gain.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

IN THE good old days, recalls Robert Bloch, writing a movie mystery or serial was comparative child's play.

All you had to do was to find a heroine—Ruth Roland or Pearl White, for example—who could wear riding breeches. The head villain always wore a felt hat (unless he was a gorilla), his henchmen always wore caps, and the heroine usually could escape via any one of fourteen secret panels.

Then came the era of housekeepers with candles that cast strange shadows on the walls and detectives named Philo or Nero who never stopped talking. They gave way in turn to Bogartian tough guys, Hitchcock psychopaths, and Oriental masterminds. Today James Bond has put them all in the shade—and to really "dig" a whodunit film you've got to know what's what in wines, mens' cravats, sports cars, and international diplomacy.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What are the signs of appendicitis?

Mr. M. M., Illinois
Dear Mr. M.: Inflammation or infections of the appendix have signs recognizable by the physician. The patient himself has symptoms.

Now why do I avoid outlining the symptoms of this condition? Symptoms of appendicitis can resemble many other simple or even more complicated intestinal disorders. Here are a few of the usual complaints:

Pain and cramps of the abdomen.
Nausea and vomiting.
Fever and malaise.
Certainly this combination in any grouping is not sufficient reason for assuming that one has appendicitis.

The diagnosis of this condition often needs the most astute judgment of the physician and surgeon.

Appendicitis can be confused with many other abdominal disorders.

A firm rule and a safe one is that no laxative or enemas be given to anyone who has abdominal pain without specific medical instructions.

I am nearing 40 years of age and have just learned that I may have chronic glomerulonephritis, following an acute attack of kidney disease.

Could you give me some idea of how this disease progresses and what I may expect in the future in regard to the illness. Is there any special diet or other means which would help to control this disease? I have not been given any medicine to take or any rules to follow.

Mrs. M.E.M., Florida
Dear Mrs. M.: Glomerulonephritis is an inflammation or infection of the kidneys. It is

Quiet Hamptons Start Swinging

THE HAMPTONS, N.Y. (AP) — Last year the really chic thing to do here was to go discotheque dancing at the Wharf, a picturesque shipyard barn with an incongruous crystal chandelier.

This year the chic crowd presses across the gangplank onto a noisy, smoky, congested, fishnet-draped, lantern-lit railroad barge once used to shuttle vegetables across New York harbor.

There they writhe on a tiny patch of mahogany to the frenzied beat of the Rascals, billed as the hottest new "rock" group in the East.

It is also chic to carom through the streets in convertibles and climb out over the door; to fly kites at the country club pool; to crash houseparties after 2 a.m.; to sleep 40 winks on the floor of somebody's cottage and start all over again.

The Hamptons on Long Island, site of summer homes for moneyed people, have always been chic and colorful with miles of dunes, beaches, fishing boats, windmills, and high-hedged estates hiding old mansions and sprawling, imported lawns. It was always chic but somnolent until it became very chic to have fun day and night. Especially night. Now The Hamptons are chic and swinging.

Berlin's coming season of opera and theater will feature 25 productions in 14 houses.

Oldtimers despair the steady encroachment of motels and cooperative hotels; beer cans in roadside gutters; parked cars filled with sleeping, party-exhausted teen-agers too broke to invest in a night's lodging.

As raspy-voiced, piano-tinkling jet set favorite, Tugh Shannon, explains it, "All of a sudden Prince Miguel was on the doorstep with about 100 pieces of luggage and a lovely companion and with no place to go but my house. We managed though."

So did Carol Channing and husband, Rona Jaffe and friends, etc. etc. The Shannon seaside cottage is always bulging and bouncing with international fun-loving celebrities.

Friday's night life get a slow start after the Long Island Railroad Club have disgorged the last commuter and the sports cars of affluent New Yorkers have tediously crawled through two and a half hours of traffic. On Saturday and Sunday it starts at noon and lasts till dawn.

Along with The Barge the chic stops to make include the Mid-Hamptons Country Club where Shannon, the daytime party host, becomes Shannon the nighttime saloon singer with the same sophisticates of the day encircling him worshipfully at the piano like kiddies in kindergarten.

It is very chic for ladies to wear bellbottom trousers and lace pajamas to the discotheques; hair long and straight; false eye lashes; cowboy hats, sandals by night and bare feet by day; bikinis at poolside — but never in the water.

It is very chic for men to wear open-necked shirts and ascot ties, blazer or madras jackets and loud slacks bought at a men's store that has blue polka dotted awnings.

It is very chic at The Hamptons.

Quiet Hamptons Start Swinging

THE HAMPTONS, N.Y. (AP) — Last year the really chic thing to do here was to go discotheque dancing at the Wharf, a picturesque shipyard barn with an incongruous crystal chandelier.

This year the chic crowd presses across the gangplank onto a noisy, smoky, congested, fishnet-draped, lantern-lit railroad barge once used to shuttle vegetables across New York harbor.

There they writhe on a tiny patch of mahogany to the frenzied beat of the Rascals, billed as the hottest new "rock" group in the East.

It is also chic to carom through the streets in convertibles and climb out over the door; to fly kites at the country club pool; to crash houseparties after 2 a.m.; to sleep 40 winks on the floor of somebody's cottage and start all over again.

The Hamptons on Long Island, site of summer homes for moneyed people, have always been chic and colorful with miles of dunes, beaches, fishing boats, windmills, and high-heeled estates hiding old mansions and sprawling, imported lawns. It was always chic but somnolent until it became very chic to have fun day and night. Especially night. Now The Hamptons are chic and swinging.

Berlin's coming season of opera and theater will feature 25 productions in 14 houses.

Oldtimers dispair the steady encroachment of motels and cooperative hotels; beer cans in roadside gutters; parked cars filled with sleeping, party-exhausted teen-agers too broke to invest in a night's lodging.

As raspy-voiced, piano-tinkling jet set favorite, Tugh Shannon, explains it, "All of a sudden Prince Miguel was on the doorstep with about 100 pieces of luggage and a lovely companion and with no place to go but my house. We managed though."

So did Carol Channing and husband, Rona Jaffe and friends, etc. etc. The Shannon seaside cottage is always bulging and bouncing with international fun-loving celebrities.

Friday's night life get a slow start after the Long Island Railroad Club have disgorged the last commuter and the sports cars of affluent New Yorkers have tediously crawled through two and a half hours of traffic. On Saturday and Sunday it starts at noon and lasts till dawn.

Along with The Barge the chic stops to make include the Mid-Hamptons Country Club where Shannon, the daytime party host, becomes Shannon the nighttime saloon singer with the same sophisticates of the day encircling him worshipfully at the piano like kiddies in kindergarten.

It is very chic for ladies to wear bellbottom trousers and lace pajamas to the discotheques; hair long and straight; false eye lashes; cowboy hats, sandals by night and bare feet by day; bikinis at poolside — but never in the water.

It is very chic for men to wear open-necked shirts and ascot ties, blazer or madras jackets and loud slacks bought at a men's store that has blue polka dotted awnings.

It is very chic at The Hamptons.

Plan Early To Finance College Years

Food, clothing and shelter are being replaced as the largest items in many family budgets by a new trio — books, board and tuition.

On average, it costs $2,000 to keep a boy or girl in college for a year, and costs are going up. Planning to meet this need should begin as early as possible, according to a panel of State Farm Life Insurance Company's top ten agents.

Insurance traditionally has played an important role in family planning to meet college costs. Insurance on the breadwinner is a key element in college planning, these top insurance men say. If it's a choice between a traditional college endowment policy on the child and adequate life insurance on the father, insurance for Dad is a wiser buy.

Here's the reason: if the breadwinner dies, his life insurance benefits can be used to put Sis or Junior through school; if he lives, the children will be going to school during what is probably his peak earning period when more money is available. Further, his life insurance can be cashed in, or used to secure a low-cost loan.

Innocent People Are Massacred

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Richard Kriegel helped to bury the dead, then wrote a letter. "My blood was boiling," wrote the young U.S. aid officer from Arlington, Va. "What the hell can the Viet Cong obtain by killing a bunch of innocent kids?"

Kriegel had helped bury 17 refugees killed when the Viet Cong attacked a refugee camp near Qui Nhon. Sixty more were wounded.

All the casualties were women and children, or old people, all of whom had come down the coast in recent months to escape the tide of war. Qui Nhon is a government enclave on the coast.

Kriegel is a U.S. aid official at Qui Nhon, capital of Binh Dinh Province. He has tens of thousands of refugees to care for, scattered in 24 settlements.

The camp the Viet Cong attacked was occupied by Catholic refugees. The Viet Cong rained mortar and automatic fire into the flimsy dormitories where the refugees lived.

Many of the refugees fled to the church but the Viet Cong fired into that.

The roughly hewn benches inside the church were dropping with blood when Kriegel entered. The priests were wearing vestments stained with red.

Kriegel, who had helped to feed and cloth the refugees, helped to bury them. Then he wrote to his head office in Saigon.

Audit Finds Funds Missing from Park

WAVERLY, Ohio (AP)—An audit of the books of Lake White State Park near here has turned up a shortage of $885. Melvin J. Rebholz, state parks department chief, announced.

Rebholz said the audit was made as a routine matter after failure of the park manager, Earl R. Collins, 30, to report back to his job after a regular day off last week. The Ohio Highway Patrol is trying to contact Collins, who had lived at the park.

Packing Tips For Students

In addition to the extra credits of light weight, looks and status, leather luggage is stronger and more pliable than ever. Thanks to new tanning methods, leather absorbs scuffs, bumps and rough handling without a puncture, tear or dent.

A leather two-suit, with accompanying soft leather carry-on case or duffel bag, should see the college through. The carry-on case can do with a pullman case (from 26" to 30" long), a 21" weekender, and a fitted cosmetic case. The flexibility of the leather sides allows for maximum packing space.

When packing, pad each fold in jackets, dresses, etc., with loosely gathered tissue paper to avoid wrinkles.

Each garment should be fitted as nearly as possible to the size of the suitcase to get the least number of folds.

Be sure that lapels and collars lie smooth. Fold garments with sleeves smoothed back against the front.

If any skirts or dresses are to be folded, do so near the waistline rather than the hem.

In a man's two-suit, drape pants and jackets carefully across the frames provided, according to the manufacturer's directions. Shoes, shirts and the rest should fit snugly into the opposite compartment.

Shoes should be covered. Tuck socks, hankies and other small items inside as a space-saver.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL OUTFITS — Decked out in fashionable back-to-school outfits for today's grammar school students are Patty and Danny Kibler. Patty is wearing a Girl Town coordinate suit with a print blouse. Her matching kneecox are by Adler and the purse by Pyramid. Danny wears an orlon Donmoor cardigan with Farapress slacks — that never need ironing. Both back-to-school outfits are available in all sizes at The Children's Shop.

Farm Bill Holds Major Changes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — There are provisions in the omnibus farm bill now before Congress which would make major changes in several programs now in effect, and prevent these programs from expiring this year, an Ohio State University extension economist says.

The House is expected to vote on the bill this month prior to Senate action.

Dr. John S. Bottum said the cropland adjustment title of the bill provides for cropland retirement through 1969. To take part in the program, a farmer would retire all acreage of at least one surplus crop and he could retire all of his cropland for 5 to 10 years. Retired land could not be grazed or harvested.

He said feed grain provisions of the bill would authorize extension of the feed grain program for another four years. Provisions for price support loans, purchases, and direct payments would be continued to farmers who participate. The price support rate for corn would range from 65 to 90 percent of parity. Soybeans could not be planted on diverted acreages.

Dr. Bottum said the wheat title of the bill would authorize continuation of the voluntary wheat certificate program for four years. It would increase price support for wheat with domestic certificates to earn 100 percent of parity (about $2.50 a bushel). The increase would be brought about through higher value of domestic certificates.

Non-certificate wheat would be supported at a level competitive to the world price of wheat and the feeding value compared to corn. Export certificates would be eliminated.

Leather Seems To Express Lots of Dash, Distinction

Leather seems to express perfectly the dash and distinction, the natural good looks, of the American college girl.

Creamy smooth and handsome grained leathers, glowing lustrous and soft suede leathers will enliven wardrobes both in and out of the classroom.

The dominant feeling is one of trim lines stressing freedom of movement. However, campus fashions reflecting every taste may be found within the broad range of textures, colors and silhouettes.

A "must" for the matriculating miss is a smart coat or jacket. Full-length smooth and suede leather coats are A-line in silhouette or cut on the straight and narrow. Detailing may include novel buttons, flap or slash pockets, and varying neckline treatment. Full-length and three-quarter coats, and jackets of all lengths, are campus favorites in autumn — in browns and greens, as well as ruby, plum, blue and neutral shades.

The versatile smooth or suede jacket appears as a Chanel-type cardigan, a shirt, a blazer. It may hang straight, or be belted at the waist. Whatever the style, the jacket teams like a dream with a gal's skirts, shifts and pants.

Come snappy weather, young ladies can snuggle into a coat or jacket with fluffy shearing lining (wool on leather). Many conveniently zip out when temperatures rise.

New fall leather suits feature easy A-line or slim leather skirts combined with cropped or long-line jackets. These elegant ensembles move with ease through the semester's dizziest days.

Ski and apres-ski outfits are the latest fashion favorites of the college crowd — and leather makes ski clothes even more exciting. Snow bunnies can play it cool on or off the ski slopes in shearing-lined parkas or ski jackets in bright or neutral colors, with matching ski pants. Fun to wear during after-ski hours are leather or leather-and-fabric separates — including middies, stoles, overblouses, long and short skirts and pants.

Top Bag on Campus Features Line, Leather and Lots of Room.

The favored handbag on campus this fall is the one featuring simple lines, softness and lots of room. Whether it's a crushable pouch or a casually styled satchel or tote, the bag that's tops with teens can take care-less treatment and still come up fresh-looking — and is spacious enough to carry all her pert and pertinent paraphernalia.

The latest handbags span grained, smooth, waxy, sueded, antiqued and lustre textures. As for color, a co-ed can take her choice — although the deeper shades and the neutrals are fashion favorites.

Back on the style bandwagon is the shoulder-strap bag — so convenient for maids on the move. The newest version sports a shorter strap so that the bag is tucked just under the arm, rather than resting at the waist or on the hip. The strap may also be shortened to hand-carrying length when desired.

Dating and dress-up mean small trim bags in glossy smooth leather, sleek sueded and burnished lustre leathers.

Farm Bill Holds Major Changes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — There are provisions in the omnibus farm bill now before Congress which would make major changes in several programs now in effect, and prevent these programs from expiring this year, an Ohio State University extension economist says.

The House is expected to vote on the bill this month prior to Senate action.

Dr. John S. Bottum said the cropland adjustment title of the bill provides for cropland retirement through 1969. To take part in the program, a farmer would retire all acreage of at least one surplus crop and he could retire all of his cropland for 5 to 10 years. Retired land could not be grazed or harvested.

He said feed grain provisions of the bill would authorize extension of the feed grain program for another four years. Provisions for price support loans, purchases, and direct payments would be continued to farmers who participate. The price support rate for corn would range from 65 to 90 per cent of parity. Soybeans could not be planted on diverted acres.

Dr. Bottum said the wheat title of the bill would authorize continuation of the voluntary wheat certificate program for four years. It would increase price support for wheat with domestic certificates to earn 100 per cent of parity (about $2.50 a bushel). The increase would be brought about through higher value of domestic certificates. Non-certificate wheat would be supported at a level competitive to the world price of wheat and the feeding value compared to corn. Export certificates would be eliminated.

Officials estimate the wheat program would raise the cost of bread about seven-tenths of a cent a loaf.

Innocent People Are Massacred

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Richard Kriegel helped to bury the dead, then wrote a letter. "My blood was boiling," wrote the young U.S. aid officer from Arlington, Va. "What the hell

can the Viet Cong obtain by killing a bunch of innocent kids?"

Kriegel had helped bury 17 refugees killed when the Viet Cong attacked a refugee camp near Qui Nhon. Sixty more were wounded.

Packing Tips For Students

In addition to the extra credit of light weight, looks and status, leather luggage is stronger and more pliable than ever. Thanks to new tanning methods, leather absorbs scuffs, bumps and rough handling without a puncture, tear or dent.

A leather two-suit, with accompanying soft leather carry-on case or duffel bag, should see the college through. The carry-on case can do with a pullman case (from 26" to 30" long), a 21" weekender, and a fitted cosmetic case, the flexibility of the leather sides allows for maximum packing space.

When packing, pad each fold in jackets, dresses, etc., with loosely gathered tissue paper to avoid wrinkles.

Each garment should be fitted as nearly as possible to the size of the suitcase to get the least number of folds.

Be sure that lapels and collars lie smooth. Fold garments with sleeves smoothed back against the front.

If any skirts or dresses are to be folded, do so near the waistline rather than the hem.

In a man's two-suit, drape pants and jackets carefully across the frames provided, according to the manufacturer's directions. Shoes, shirts and the rest should fit snugly into the opposite compartment.

Shoes should be covered. Tuck socks, hankies and other small items inside a space-saver.

All the casualties were women and children, or old people, all of whom had come down the coast in recent months to escape the tide of war. Qui Nhon is a government enclave on the coast.

Kriegel is a U.S. aid official at Qui Nhon, capital of Binh Dinh Province. He has tens of thousands of refugees to care for, scattered in 24 settlements. The camp the Viet Cong attacked was occupied by Catholic refugees. The Viet Cong rained mortar and automatic fire into the flimsy dormitories where the refugees lived.

Many of the refugees fled to the church but the Viet Cong fired into that.

The roughly hewn benches inside the church were dropping with blood when Kriegel entered. The priests were wearing vestments stained with red.

Kriegel, who had helped to feed and cloth the refugees, helped to bury them. Then he wrote to his head office in Saigon.

Audit Finds Funds Missing from Park

WAVERLY, Ohio (AP)—An audit of the books of Lake White State Park near here has turned up a shortage of $885, Melvin J. Rebholz, state parks department chief, announced.

Rebholz said the audit was made as a routine matter after failure of the park manager, Earl R. Collins, 30, to report back to his job after a regular day off last week. The Ohio Highway Patrol is trying to contact Collins, who had lived at the park.

Leather Seems To Express Lots of Dash, Distinction

Leather seems to express perfectly the dash and distinction, the natural good looks, of the American college girl.

Creamy smooth and handsome grained leathers, glowing lustrous and soft suede leathers will enliven wardrobes both in and out of the classroom.

The dominant feeling is one of trim lines stressing freedom of movement. However, campus fashions reflecting every taste may be found within the broad range of textures, colors and silhouettes.

A "must" for the matriculating miss is a smart coat or jacket. Full-length smooth and suede leather coats are A-line in silhouette or cut on the straight and narrow. Detailing may include novel buttons, flap or slash pockets, and varying neckline treatment. Full-length and three-quarter coats, and jackets of all lengths, are campus favorites in autumn — in browns and greens, as well as ruby, plum, blue and neutral shades.

The versatile smooth or suede jacket appears as a Chanel-type cardigan, a shirt, a blazer. It may hang straight, or be belted at the waist. Whatever the style, the jacket teams like a dream with a gal's skirts, shifts and pants.

Come snappy weather, young ladies can snuggle into a coat or jacket with fluffy shearing lining (wool on leather). Many conveniently zip out when temperatures rise.

New fall leather suits feature easy A-line or slim leather skirts combined with cropped or long-line jackets. These elegant ensembles move with ease through the semester's dizziest days.

Ski and apres-ski outfits are the latest fashion favorites of the college crowd — and leather makes ski clothes even more exciting. Firm Expands Athens Plant

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—McBee Systems Division, makers of accounting equipment and business forms, announced Wednesday an expansion program during the next 12 months that will exceed $2 million.

Plans call for building a new plant here that will provide 200,000 square feet of production, office and warehouse space. The three existing plants here will be moved into the new building.

J. E. Widman, vice president and general manager of McBee Systems, also announced the company would extend its line in the printed forms business. "Athens has been the home of McBee production for nearly 60 years. We want you to know that the company has definite plans to grow with the community," Widman said.

Edwards Derive Much Pleasure At Their Farm in Hocking Hills

The H. T. Edwards of Route 1, Laurelville, live on a hill farm in Hocking County. They have lived there since 1948. When they purchased the acreage (mostly timberland) the house was a summer cottage. Since then they have made it into a comfortable and attractive all-year-round home.

"Si" Edwards, a retired railroad man, and Mrs. Edwards had operated a restaurant in Laurelville until recently. Now they have really retired, or so they call it. But they have many current projects, and there's lots of activity and planning for the future on this hill farm.

To get to the Si Edwards, turn off Route 180 several miles past South Perry. Then turn left on a shady lane lined with maple trees on one side.

Even before a visitor gets to the house his attention is arrested by Mrs. Edwards' flower garden with rows of shoulder high glads and big zinnias and snapdragons. There are cosmos, dahlias and calendulas, too. All blooming with zest.

And before you get to the house your attention is diverted by the artesian well that spouts a stream of water at the rate of five gallons per minute. This has gone on 24 hours a day for 64 years. And Si Edwards is planning to make a fountain of it by using a big metal dome. The water, incidentally, flows into a creek at the back of the Edwards house.

Si is building an enormous implement shed. He has yet to put in the concrete floor. This will house the cars and farm implements.

In the meantime Doris Edwards, who is a horticulturist of excellence and knows her plants and their needs from A to Z, is planning to move all her perennials down to this garden where she now has her annuals. And she has many of them.

It is interesting to know that Mrs. Edwards once grew Madonna lilies for market. She would send them to Columbus, 1,000 at a time in bundles of 25.

At the rear of the house the little creek with its supply of fresh water meanders along its course. There is a rustic bridge over it. Up the slope on which the two-level house is built is the wild garden where the wildlings bloom in the spring. Daffodils are interplanted with the flowers on this hillside.

The steps that lead to the patio and living area of the home are planted on either side with shade loving plants like ajuga valley lily. Near the stone chimney is a wild clematis that is a charming vine. It has orchid urn shaped blossoms that flare back into white petals. Mrs. Edwards says this is not uncommon in Hocking County.

On the other side of the steps is another vine, wild yam, with heart shaped leaves and racemes of winged green seed pods.

THE HOUSE is in rather dense shade, but Mrs. Edwards has highlighted the area with bright annuals. Under the big hickory that shades the patio is an iron rendering kettle filled with bright annuals. She uses tuberous begonias for color effect. And on the stone retaining wall is a planter of geraniums and petunias.

Hanging baskets add color, too, especially the one in which a begonia blooms. It had at

RIDE TO THE POND — Si Edwards drives the tractor and Mrs. Ed Fetherolf and Doris Edwards ride on the hydraulic lift. When Si pulled a lever the lift raised about 30 inches in the air. least 35 bright pink blossoms.

A grove of walnuts grows on the hill to one side of the house. Trees are largely walnut, hickory and oak. But the Edwards have one special tree which was a gift some seven years ago. This is a butternut, to which they point with pride. At long last it's going to have nuts.

Eddie Bowsher, a restaurant patron, gave them the butternut tree. And they thought for a long time it was a walnut. But the elongated nuts prove that it's truly a butternut as Eddie Bowsher told them.

Mrs. Edwards has iris and magic lilies planted close to the trunks of some of the trees. What's more they bloom. I saw the magic lilies blooming and Mrs. Edwards says that the iris which encircle the trees bloom, too.

Mrs. Edwards grew the geraniums from seed which she has planted in the pots of her flower pot umbrella. This, too, is her way of providing color in the shady hillside lawn.

HER ROSES grow on the hillside in front of a white board fence. And excellent roses they are.

Mrs. Edwards is an organic gardener in part. They have a leaf shredder. And shredded leaves mixed with rotten sawdust makes wonderful compost. However, she does use commercial fertilizer and is not averse to spraying with chemicals when insects encroach.

African violets are Mrs. Edwards' indoor specialty. She has them by the dozen. She is having good luck with her "Gro-Lite" and grows seedlings for her outdoor garden.

Si Edwards came along with his tractor and hydraulic lift. He had made the lift himself. He is an accomplished welder and machinist. He

FLOWER POT UMBRELLA — Mr. and Mrs. Si Edwards stand near an umbrella that Si made from an old hay rake. Doris Edwards raised the geraniums in the pots from seed planted in her "Gro-Lite."

Invited the visitors to climb on the lift and go see his hilltop pond.

So Mrs. Edwards and the two visitors, including Mrs. Ed Fetherolf and the garden editor, stepped on the lift. Si pulled a lever and the lift went up 30 inches in the air.

Away the tractor went, up the steep hill, with the ladies bouncing on the lift behind.

THE POND is at the crest of the hill. A very deep pond, it is stocked with fish for the pleasure of relatives and guests. Up here there is a hilltop area for crops such as corn, sweet potatoes and sunflowers. The Edwards feed the birds come winter.

You may call it retirement if you like. We'd call it "livin' it up in the Hocking Hills."

True Ferns Identified by Close Study

When is a fern really a fern? Well, if you want to get technical a fern is distinguished from a flowering plant by its sexual method of reproduction. Instead of producing seeds they form spores on the backs of the fronds or in some cases on special spore bearing structures.

The spores when sown on damp soil produce green, flat heart-shaped structures about half an inch in diameter. These are prothallia and they produce the sexual organs. The female structure, when fertilized, gives rise to young fern plants of typical appearance.

Just calling a plant a fern because it looks feathery does not make it a fern.

NEITHER the Artillery fern nor the Asparagus (Sprengeri fern) which were entered in the class for ferns at the recent Fair flower show were true ferns.

Sprengeri for all its feathery, ferny look produces flowers and is often propagated by seeds.

Artillery fern has flowers. In fact that is the reason for its name. When the unexpanded flower buds are moistened they discharge their pollen in a visible dustlike cloud — like artillery fire. This so-called fern belongs to the Urticaceae or Nettle family.

Actually both plants added considerably to the show. But if you want to be technical the Artillery fern and the Asparagus (Sprengeri) fern are not true ferns.

Garden Gossip

Dr. Floyd Dunlap has a doorway garden at his office. Along with the petunias he has some excellently grown delphinium.

Many doctors are delphinium specialists. We have heard it said that delphinium is so tricky and delicate it takes a doctor to grow it.

Mrs. Leslies Karshner, 352 Watt St., has returned from a visit with her daughter in Greenville, Mich. Aside from enjoying the beautifully landscaped lawn with blue spruce and Lavender Princess roses, Mrs. Karshner went cherry picking. Blueberry picking, too. The orchards are commercial. You take your own container and pick all you want for five cents a pound.

Makes me remember that I lost out on blackberrying this year. Mrs. Si Edwards said she knew there would not be blackberries because it rained when the berries were in blossom. She says this is a sure sign.

Mrs. Russ McFarland (Agnes) near Ringgold has a volunteer sunflower almost 10 feet high. Now this is a pretty tall plant but sunflowers in this area often top this height by two or three feet.

Mrs. Dorsey Bumgarner judged a show in Newark Saturday. There's a big club there, a Mr. and Mrs. Club. And the men raise roses. Bea Bumgarner was told that it would take three hours to judge the specimens.

Bea, who knows all the great and near great in Central Ohio's gardening world, says that rose growers are going quietly mad about "Scope." It's a systemic product which fertilizes and medicates the plants at the same time. Even grasshoppers drop dead after they eat rose foliage which has been treated with it.

Just dig it in around the roots and you'll harvest roses that look as though they have been raised in Paradise. And without all the usual hard work. No stores around here carry it as far as Bea knows. We can hardly wait to talk to Ruth Montellius to see if that's why she has such grand roses.

Bea Bumgarner has praying mantis in considerable numbers. These she likes. They kill the spiders. There won't be any insects left for her praying mantis if she gets hold of this fabulous product.

My first tigridia bloomed. It was indeed a beautiful flower. It is also called Mexican shell flower. But the blossom only lasts one day. I think, however, that it has more buds coming along.

The M. E. Noggles on W. Union St. have trellises for their cucumbers and tomatoes.

And speaking of tomatoes, Charlie Barnhart proudly exhibited a big Mortgage Lifter tomato at the Whisler Grocery store. He was promptly shown the picture of Geneva Ullman and her Superman tomato that was carried in The Herald. That put a spoke in Charlie's wheel!

Superman tomato seeds retail for $35 an ounce. The Ullman plant was the gift of a friend in Amanda. Incidentally, while it was Geneva that had her picture taken with the tomato, it was Jim Ullman that tenderly cared for the plant.

The G. H. Armstrongs never show their glads at posy exhibits. And they grow them by the hundreds. This year, however, at least four different people used Armstrong glads in their artistic arrangements at the county Fair.

The Armstrongs brought over a startlingly lovely bouquet to me. It was a special gift because I was made a grand-

Sunflowers At Bowshers Beneficial

If Van Gogh were around today his urge for painting the sunflower could certainly be satisfied in the backyard of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bowsher of N. Scioto St.

Growing there are rows of these humble but productive plants skirting the lawn's edge and forming a background for the small vegetable garden at the rear.

The screening effect of these large plants, some of them more than 10 feet tall, serve the purpose of hiding objectional background and affording privacy.

The Bowshers harvest the seed at the end of the summer and use them for stocking bird-feeders during the winter.

Across the yard, a newly-built pool and rock garden adds its beauty to the scene. And here again, as explained, a secondary purpose is served: the pool furnishes an oasis for the birds and friendly squirrels that visit there.

mother for the seventh time recently. Wasn't that cute. It's the only time I ever heard of a grandmother being so honored.

Mrs. John Mast foresook the melon stand Thursday to bring entries to the Fair flower show. She's planning on sticking to her post the rest of the season, she says. The Masts live on Route 188.

Mrs. Paul Conrad, who lives on Route 22 near the park, came to see my garden the other day. She brought me a big chrysanthemum plant. I divided it in four parts although she did not recommend division. Mrs. Conrad is a plant swapper.

Vangie Campbell has been looking for hop vines all summer. They are a bit on the rare side. The George Kerrs on Watt St. have a hop vine but it has a blight and did not produce hops.

Imagine our surprise then to find hops in an arrangement entered at the Fair by Mrs. Judson Beougher, near Laurelville. It was a prize winner, too.

PEACE ROSES — Mrs. Si Edwards examines her Peace roses and smiles happily at the seven-inch blooms. Roses are planted in a row near a white painted fence. She has about 25 rose plants, many of which are floribundas. She plans to have additional tea roses which are more to her fancy.

Edwards Derive Much Pleasure At Their Farm in Hocking Hills

The H. T. Edwards of Route 1, Laurelville, live on a hill farm in Hocking County. They have lived there since 1948. When they purchased the acreage (mostly timberland) the house was a summer cottage. Since then they have made it into a comfortable and attractive all-year-round home.

"Si" Edwards, a retired railroad man, and Mrs. Edwards had operated a restaurant in Laurelville until recently. Now they have really retired, or so they call it. But they have many current projects, and there's lots of activity and planning for the future on this hill farm.

To get to the Si Edwards, turn off Route 180 several miles past South Perry. Then turn left on a shady lane lined with maple trees on one side.

Even before a visitor gets to the house his attention is arrested by Mrs. Edwards' flower garden with rows of shoulder high glads and big zinnias and snapdragons. There are cosmos, dahlias and calendulas, too. All blooming with zest.

And before you get to the house your attention is diverted by the artesian well that spouts a stream of water at the rate of five gallons per minute. This has gone on 24 hours a day for 64 years. And Si Edwards is planning to make a fountain of it by using a big metal dome. The water, incidentally, flows into a creek at the back of the Edwards house.

Si is building an enormous implement shed. He has yet to put in the concrete floor. This will house the cars and farm implements.

In the meantime Doris Edwards, who is a horticulturist of excellence and knows her plants and their needs from A to Z, is planning to move all her perennials down to this garden where she now has her annuals. And she has many of them.

It is interesting to know that Mrs. Edwards once grew Madonna lilies for market. She would send them to Columbus, 1,000 at a time in bundles of 25.

At the rear of the house the little creek with its supply of fresh water meanders along its course. There is a rustic bridge over it. Up the slope on which the two-level house is built is the wild garden where the wildlings bloom in the spring. Daffodils are interplanted with the flowers on this hillside.

The steps that lead to the patio and living area of the home are planted on either side with shade loving plants like ajuga valley lily. Near the stone chimney is a wild clematis that is a charming vine. It has orchid urn shaped blossoms that flare back into white petals. Mrs. Edwards says this is not uncommon in Hocking County.

On the other side of the steps is another vine, wild yam, with heart shaped leaves and racemes of winged green seed pods.

THE HOUSE is in rather dense shade, but Mrs. Edwards has highlighted the area with bright annuals. Under the big hickory that shades the patio is an iron rendering kettle filled with bright annuals. She uses tuberous begonias for color effect. And on the stone retaining wall is a planter of geraniums and petunias.

Hanging baskets add color, too, especially the one in which a begonia blooms. It had at

RIDE TO THE POND — Si Edwards drives the tractor and Mrs. Ed Fetherolf and Doris Edwards ride on the hydraulic lift. When Si pulled a lever the lift raised about 30 inches in the air. least 35 bright pink blossoms.

A grove of walnuts grows on the hill to one side of the house. Trees are largely walnut, hickory and oak. But the Edwards have one special tree which was a gift some seven years ago. This is a butternut, to which they point with pride. At long last it's going to have nuts.

Eddie Bowsher, a restaurant patron, gave them the butternut tree. And they thought for a long time it was a walnut. But the elongated nuts prove that it's truly a butternut as Eddie Bowsher told them.

Mrs. Edwards has iris and magic lilies planted close to the trunks of some of the trees. What's more they bloom. I saw the magic lilies blooming and Mrs. Edwards says that the iris which encircle the trees bloom, too.

Mrs. Edwards grew the geraniums from seed which she has planted in the pots of her flower pot umbrella. This, too, is her way of providing color in the shady hillside lawn.

HER ROSES grow on the hillside in front of a white board fence. And excellent roses they are.

Mrs. Edwards is an organic gardener in part. They have a leaf shredder. And shredded leaves mixed with rotten sawdust makes wonderful compost. However, she does use commercial fertilizer and is not averse to spraying with chemicals when insects encroach.

African violets are Mrs. Edwards' indoor specialty. She has them by the dozen. She is having good luck with her "Gro-Lite" and grows seedlings for her outdoor garden.

Si Edwards came along with his tractor and hydraulic lift. He had made the lift himself. He is an accomplished welder and machinist. He invited the visitors to climb on the lift and go see his hilltop pond.

So Mrs. Edwards and the two visitors, including Mrs. Ed Fetherolf and the garden editor, stepped on the lift. Si pulled a lever and the lift went up 30 inches in the air.

Away the tractor went, up the steep hill, with the ladies bouncing on the lift behind.

THE POND is at the crest of the hill. A very deep pond, it is stocked with fish for the pleasure of relatives and guests. Up here there is a hilltop area for crops such as corn, sweet potatoes and sunflowers. The Edwards feed the birds come winter.

You may call it retirement if you like. We'd call it "livin' it up in the Hocking Hills."

True Ferns Identified by Close Study

When is a fern really a fern? Well, if you want to get technical a fern is distinguished from a flowering plant by its sexual method of reproduction. Instead of producing seeds they form spores on the backs of the fronds or in some cases on special spore bearing structures.

The spores when sown on damp soil produce green, flat heart-shaped structures about half an inch in diameter. These are prothallia and they produce the sexual organs. The female structure, when fertilized, gives rise to young fern plants of typical appearance.

Just looking a plant a fern because it looks feathery does not make it a fern.

NEITHER the Artillery fern nor the Asparagus (Sprengeri fern) which were entered in the class for ferns at the recent Fair flower show were true ferns.

Sprengeri for all its feathery, ferny look produces flowers and is often propagated by seeds.

Artillery fern has flowers. In fact that is the reason for its name. When the unexpanded flower buds are moistened they discharge their pollen in a visible dustlike cloud — like artillery fire. This so-called fern belongs to the Urticaceae or Nettle family.

Actually both plants added considerably to the show. But if you want to be technical the Artillery fern and the Asparagus (Sprengeri) fern are not true ferns.

Garden Gossip

Dr. Floyd Dunlap has a doorway garden at his office. Along with the petunias he has some excellently grown delphinium.

Many doctors are delphinium specialists. We have heard it said that delphinium is so tricky and delicate it takes a doctor to grow it.

Mrs. Leslies Karshner, 352 Watt St., has returned from a visit with her daughter in Greenville, Mich. Aside from enjoying the beautifully landscaped lawn with blue spruce and Lavender Princess roses, Mrs. Karshner went cherry picking. Blueberry picking, too. The orchards are commercial. You take your own container and pick all you want for five cents a pound.

Makes me remember that I lost out on blackberrying this year. Mrs. Si Edwards said she knew there would not be blackberries because it rained when the berries were in blossom. She says this is a sure sign.

Mrs. Russ McFarland (Agnes) near Ringgold has a volunteer sunflower almost 10 feet high. Now this is a pretty tall plant but sunflowers in this area often top this height by two or three feet.

Mrs. Dorsey Bumgarner judged a show in Newark Saturday. There's a big club there, a Mr. and Mrs. Club. And the men raise roses. Be a Bumgarner was told that it would take three hours to judge the specimens.

Bea, who knows all the great and near great in Central Ohio's gardening world, says that rose growers are going quietly mad about "Scope." It's a systemic product which fertilizes and medicates the plants at the same time. Even grasshoppers drop dead after they eat rose foliage which has been treated with it.

Just dig it in around the roots and you'll harvest roses that look as though they have been raised in Paradise. And without all the usual hard work. No stores around here carry it as far as Bea knows. We can hardly wait to talk to Ruth Montelius to see if that's why she has such grand roses.

Bea Bumgarner has praying mantis in considerable numbers. These she likes. They kill the spiders. There won't be any insects left for her praying mantis if she gets hold of this fabulous product.

My first tigridia bloomed. It was indeed a beautiful flower. It is also called Mexican shell flower. But the blossom only lasts one day. I think, however, that it has more buds coming along.

The M. E. Noggles on W. Union St. have trellises for their cucumbers and tomatoes.

And speaking of tomatoes, Charlie Barnhart proudly exhibited a big Mortgage Lifter tomato at the Whisler Grocery store. He was promptly shown the picture of Geneva Ullman and her Superman tomato that was carried in The Herald. That put a spoke in Charlie's wheel!

Superman tomato seeds retail for $35 an ounce. The Ullman plant was the gift of a friend in Amanda. Incidentally, while it was Geneva that had her picture taken with the tomato, it was Jim Ullman that tenderly cared for the plant.

The G. H. Armstrongs never show their glads at posy exhibits. And they grow them by the hundreds. This year, however, at least four different people used Armstrong glads in their artistic arrangements at the county Fair.

The Armstrongs brought over a startlingly lovely bouquet to me. It was a special gift because I was made a grand-

Sunflowers At Bowshers Beneficial

If Van Gogh were around today his urge for painting the sunflower could certainly be satisfied in the backyard of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bowsher of N. Scioto St.

Growing there are rows of these humble but productive plants skirting the lawn's edge and forming a background for the small vegetable garden at the rear.

The screening effect of these large plants, some of them more than 10 feet tall, serve the purpose of hiding objectional background and affording privacy.

The Bowshers harvest the seed at the end of the summer and use them for stocking bird-feeders during the winter.

Across the yard, a newly-built pool and rock garden adds its beauty to the scene. And here again, as explained, a secondary purpose is served: the pool furnishes an oasis for the birds and friendly squirrels that visit there.

mother for the seventh time recently. Wasn't that cute. It's the only time I ever heard of a grandmother being so honored.

Mrs. John Mast foresook the melon stand Thursday to bring entries to the Fair flower show. She's planning on sticking to her post the rest of the season, she says. The Masts live on Route 188.

Mrs. Paul Conrad, who lives on Route 22 near the park, came to see my garden the other day. She brought me a big chrysanthemum plant. I divided it in four parts although she did not recommend division. Mrs. Conrad is a plant swapper.

Vangie Campbell has been looking for hop vines all summer. They are a bit on the rare side. The George Kerrs on Watt St. have a hop vine but it has a blight and did not produce hops.

Imagine our surprise then to find hops in an arrangement entered at the Fair by Mrs. Judson Beougher, near Laurelville. It was a prize winner, too.

New Lumber Yard Scheduled To Open Here Next Month

The 84 Lumber Co. will open its new lumber yard on Route 23 north of here early next month, according to Robert S. Hardy, president.

The 84 Co., in opening its 22nd lumber yard, has planned a promotional grand opening at the Circleville site. The Paul Bunyan Games, which will culminate in the selection of a "Mr. Paul Bunyan of Central Ohio," are scheduled to be held during the celebration.

Hardy said his firm chose this location because of its accessibility by highway for homeowners and contractors in a wide area. "We expect this new yard to make a significant contribution to the new building and expansion that has been so apparent in this region," he added.

The first 84 lumber yard was opened in 1957 south of Pittsburgh, Pa. Since then additional distribution centers have been added at an increasing pace.

The yard here will be the sixth one to be opened in Ohio. Others are at Pataskala, Maumee, near Youngstown and two near Cleveland. Additional sites are in Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, West Virginia, New York and Pennsylvania.

Hardy said this year will see seven new stores opened since March. Present plans call for 12 new yards to be opened in 1966.

The grand opening here will be a three-day event. Gifts will be awarded and manufacture representatives from more than 30 building firms will be on hand to demonstrate and answer questions concerning their products that will be carried by 84 Lumber.

Sukarno Expected To Crush Malaysia

SINGAPORE (AP) — Indonesia is expected to step up its campaign to crush Malaysia now that Singapore has left the young federation.

President Sukarno is likely to view Singapore's separation Monday as a green light to step up military operations and an indication that Malaysia is on the rocks.

The "other war" in Southeast Asia probably will increase in gravity, with consequent increased demands on the British and Commonwealth forces who are Malaysia's chief protection.

"Malaysia can expect an onslaught from Indonesia in the coming week," a military source said after the split in the federation was announced.

The source said Indonesia now is likely to shift its sights away from this big Southeast Asian city.

"The Indonesians might be tempted to have a go at British bases here," the source said. "But if they think they can get Singapore on their side — and Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew has said he wants to cooperate with Indonesia — they might call a temporary halt to their attacks on Singapore."

Other military sources consider Singapore's separation from Malaysia a psychological victory for Indonesia.

"Sukarno must be having a great laugh," one source said. "But we can expect him to take the utmost advantage of the separation militarily."

Most military authorities in Singapore — Britain's biggest base east of Suez — were pessimistic about the effect Singapore's separation from Malaysia will have on the morale of those resisting Indonesian aggression.

"If they can't stick together internally, how are they going to fight an external enemy?" one source said.

"We can expect the Indonesians to take the utmost advantage of the split. They will now give confrontation everything they have got, because they believe they have smelt the first sniff of victory."

"They have seen the first crack in Malaysia."

Military authorities believe Aug. 17, Indonesia's independence day, probably will spark the biggest, most determined attack yet on Malaysia. Aug. 31, Malaysia's independence day, is another likely date for attack.

On the two independence days last year Sukarno sent paratroopers and other forces into the Malaysian mainland. Both these incursions were crushed by security forces — Malaysians, British, Australians and New Zealanders.

Since then, Sukarno has sent numerous guerrilla teams into mainland Malaya. In recent months he has been concentrating on this island state of 1.8 million people.

Bombings became commonplace. Two weeks ago an attempt was made to blow up the entrance to the U.S. consulate. Sukarno threatened to turn Singapore into a "sea of flames" if Britain stepped up aggression against Indonesia, as he put it.

Indonesian Defense Minister Abdul Haris Nasution said Singapore must be destroyed before Malaysia could be crushed. Sukarno will probably now shift his sights from Singapore to the Malayan mainland and Malaysia's Borneo states of Sarawak and Sabah.

The Indonesians are expected to land regular troops and infiltrators in southern Malaya by boat. They may try to drop paratroopers into certain areas on the peninsula.

Some military observers believe they might use guided missiles against strategic military bases. A recent report said the Soviet Union has supplied Indonesia 12 gunboats armed with surface-to-surface missiles capable of carrying atomic warheads.

In Borneo, the Indonesians are expected to send more troops across the jungle border and to speed up their attempts to stir up internal trouble.

They have allies in Sarawak, where some 25,000 Chinese are believed to be pro-Peking, anti-Malaysia and prepared for armed revolt.

Indonesia recently stepped up its training of Chinese from Sarawak on its side of the border in guerrilla warfare. Recently Indonesian regulars led a group of Chinese Communists in an attack on a police post. Nine people were killed, including the brother of Sarawak's chief minister.

Time Needed To Gather Blast Facts

SEARCY, Ark. (AP) — The Air Force says it will probably be at least 10 days before it's known what caused an explosion and fire in a Titan II missile complex, killing 53 civilians.

A 30-man investigation team continued today its inspection of the blackened launch tube of America's mightiest ballistic missile — scene of the worst tragedy in the history of America's space and missile systems.

Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert and an Arkansas congressional delegation went into the underground complex Wednesday, but returned to Washington without revealing any findings.

Zuckert said it will probably be 10 days to two weeks before "we have the answers to the questions now being asked."

He toured the site with Sens. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., and John L. McClellan, D-Ark., Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., and Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas.

Only two of the 55 workmen who were modifying the silo's physical plant survived Monday's explosion and fire.

"There will be no progress report on the investigation," said Capt. Douglas Wood, public information officer for Little Rock Air Force Base. Until "they come up with a probable cause or a definite cause."

A board headed by Brig. Gen. C. B. Stewart from the office of the inspector general is handling the investigation because, Zuckert said, "this is in connection with the missile program which cuts across more than one command."

Zuckert said there was a possibility of an "investigation board from the Strategic Air Command, but this has not been definitely decided."

The investigation is being held to determine what went wrong and to determine what added safety factors might be needed, he said, adding: "I will report our findings to the President."

The modification program on missile sites has been stopped by the Air Force, pending the investigation. The 54 Titan II sites are scattered in clusters of 18 around Little Rock, Ark., Tucson, Ariz., and Wichita, Kan. They were completed in 1963 at a cost of more than $400 million.

The 150-ton missile, capable of carrying a 24-megaton atomic warhead 18,000 miles an hour to targets 6,000 miles away, was in the launch tube Monday, but did not burn.

Expressions of sorrow and sympathy for the families of the men came from the Washington officials. Churches are remaining open in this central Arkansas town of 8,000 for prayers for the victims.

Mills said the delegation did not see all of the complex, "but we saw enough to know that it was horrible."

There are numerous safety devices in each Titan silo — temperature and humidity controls, electronic systems control, automatic sprinkler systems to fight fires, pressure control system and others.

Cotton is one of the oldest and most valuable plants grown by man. It is known that cotton was in use in India and China hundreds of years before the birth of Christ.

Young Diving Prospects Compete with Champs

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Two veteran diving champions were favored to add to their victory strings as the National AAU swimming and diving championships entered the second round today.

Both, however, were faced with determined challenges by eager young prospects.

Mrs. Joel O'Connell, a 22-year-old platinum blonde from the Santa Clara (Calif.) Swim Club, who is coached by her husband, won her seventh AAU title in the women's diving Wednesday by taking the one-meter competition.

Bernie Wrightson, also 22, gained his third championship with a solid first in the men's three-meter event.

Today's schedule has the diving reversed, with the women competing in the three-meter while the men go in the low board. The card also lists the first swim event of the five-day meet as the women run off their 1,500-meter freestyle race.

Mrs. O'Connell, who barely missed an Olympic berth in 1960 and 1964, must contend with Micki King, a 19-year-old student at the University of Michigan who is looking for her first championship.

Micki rallied from fourth to second in Wednesday's finals competition and only a magnificent back 1½ on the last dive preserved the victory for the Californian.

Mrs. O'Connell finished with 450.95 points while Micki was second with 436.70 and two-time Olympian Patsy Willard was third with 436.30.

Wrightson, a senior this fall at Arizona State University, must fight back the effort of his own AAU teammate Keith Russell, a 17-year-old high school junior.

Russell never really threatened his older rival Wednesday but did perform the big feat of beating Olympic and NCAA champion Ken Sitzberger.

Bernie had a total of 550.65 points for first while Russell was 533.65 and Sitzberger was 532.75 for third place.

DEAD 20 MINUTES — Technically dead for 20 minutes following an auto accident in San Francisco, Mrs. Alexis Powell, 21, should be going home from the hospital soon to lead a normal life, according to doctors. A gash in her heart was closed by an emergency operation. The lack of blood circulation caused no apparent damage to her brain.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Aug. 12, the 224th day of 1965. There are 141 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1658, a force of eight men, called a "rattle watch," was established in New Amsterdam, now New York City. It was one of the first American police forces.

On this date In 1676, Indian chief Prince Philip, who led the first organized resistance to white settlers in America, was trapped and shot to death near Turner's Falls, Mass.

In 1898, peace was proclaimed between the United States and Spain.

In 1914, Britain declared war on Austria-Hungary.

In 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill met at sea to draft the Atlantic Charter.

Ten years ago — Moscow reported Soviet troops would remain in Romania until the United States removed all its forces from Europe.

Five years ago — Satellite Echo 1 was successfully launched into orbit from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

One year ago — The United States sent four transport planes to the Congo to aid Premier Moïse Tshombe fight against the rebellion.

President Plans Fall Road Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson plans no foreign travel this year but hopes to schedule speaking tours to widely separated parts of the nation in the fall as part of a "report to the people" program.

Johnson's travel plans became the subject of renewed interest after the President confided Wednesday to a visiting delegation of travel industry executives that: "I hope before the year is out — when Congress gets out of here — I can do some traveling too."

Ohio Solons Split

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio's U. S. senators cast opposing votes Wednesday in the 57-33 roll call by which the Senate passed a bill to create the new Cabinet Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Sen. Frank J. Lausche voted against the proposal while Sen. Stephen M. Young voted in favor. Both are Democrats.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

White House officials, asked to elaborate on Johnson's plans, emphasized first that no trips to foreign countries were contemplated.

Bill D. Moyers, press secretary, was asked about Johnson's off-the-cuff remark about travel hopes. He said the President wanted to "get out and see parts of the country and see people." He said that this hope has not reached the formal planning stage nor have any invitations been accepted.

From other sources, it was learned White House aides are thinking in terms of a series of speaking engagements, geographically scattered, in which Johnson would report to the people following the adjournment of Congress. It was understood there also has been very tentative talk at the White House about possible presidential conferences outside Washington with such groups as farmers, students, businessmen and, perhaps, labor union leaders.

So far as a presidential vacation was concerned, informants said nothing was in prospect for 1965 apart from visits to the LBJ Ranch near Johnson City, Tex.

Preparations have been made for extended ranch stays, though none has come to pass. A formal presidential office has been established in the federal building at Austin, the Texas capital only 65 miles from the ranch — 25 minutes by helicopter.

Late in 1964, Johnson let it be known he hoped to visit representative farmers at spring planting time this year. This idea was shelved because of foreign and domestic developments.

The President still may see the farmers, though not in the growing season. The idea is being reworked in connection with discussion of possible out-of-town sessions with representatives of various segments of the populace.

Sponsors Give Problems To Television Prop Men

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A worried-looking aide hurried into the office of his executive producer Tuesday, clutching a cigarette case.

The case, a prop to be used in one of several spy series currently in production, was really a concealed gun.

"I just don't know about this piece of business," said the aide. "He's supposed to flip the case open, but instead of getting a cigarette, he shoots the heavy."

"So?" said the producer calmly.

"So, won't we get a scream from the cigarette sponsor? They yell every time we don't handle a cigarette reverently."

The producer mused. Consequently, when the episode reaches television screens, the cigarette case probably will be a wallet or a cigarette lighter.

Automobile sponsors deplore stories involving traffic accidents. Aspirin bottlers want headaches avoided and, presumably, a manufacturer of wash-day products would avoid association with a series laid in a Chinese laundry.

On the other hand, pet food companies like to have animals, particularly those who eat the product, in the shows they underwrite. The breakfast food people think kids in the cast of their shows are just fine.

The female star of one series recently bought an expensive, sporty foreign car. It stands idle

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is on the spot. By Monday he must find a solution that will keep Republican critics quiet, save face for the United States, and get the United States, Russia and the United Nations off the hook.

This is the hook: The Soviet Union, France, Belgium, South Africa, Yemen and eight Communist countries owe $108 million to the United Nations as their share of the cost of keeping the peace in the Middle East and the Congo.

Russia's share is $62.2 million. Russia refuses to pay, arguing that the way the U.N. decision to send peacekeeping forces into the Middle East and the Congo was made was illegal. France takes a similar position.

But the United States has been making Russia its main target and insisted the Soviets must pay up or lose their vote in the U.N. General Assembly.

If that happened, and Russia and her satellites quit the world organization, only a shell would be left. This argument for months has made a mess of the United Nations. The United States has been softening its stand.

An American backdown, particularly at this time when the United States doesn't want Russia to get involved in the Vietnamese war, seems certain. Johnson's problem is how to do it gracefully. This is the background.

Originally the U.N. Security Council — where the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Nationalist China all have a veto that can kill any action — had the right to use U.N. forces to stop aggression.

But at the time of the Korean War the United Nations was able to intervene only because, when the Security Council made the decision, Russia was absent. The United States didn't want to get caught in a narrow squeak like that again.

So it proposed that the General Assembly, where all 114 member nations can vote but none has a veto, should be able to take action against a future aggressor. There were five dissenters on this: Russia and the Soviet Bloc.

In due time the assembly in 1956 voted to send a peace-keeping force into the Middle East and another into the Congo in 1960. Russia opposed both actions. France opposed the mission to the Congo.

But the cost of keeping the peace runs into millions. France, Russia and the other 11 objecting nations didn't pay their assessments for this cost.

France took the position the assembly didn't have the power to do what it did. Russia argued both actions were illegal and that only the Security Council, where it can use a veto, has the right to vote funds for peace-keeping.

But — Article 19 of the U.N. Charter says if a member falls behind for two years in what it owes toward U.N. expenses, it shall have no vote in the assembly. The United States demanded Russia pay up or lose its vote.

That was the American position under Johnson last year. Nevertheless, the United States didn't force an all-or-nothing showdown and this year its position seemed to soften.

Some Republicans in Congress began to attack the Johnson administration for what they called backdown. Yet, in this case someone has to yield or the United Nations may go up in smoke.

Smock Look Predominates For Fall '65

The silhouette for young fashionables, Fall '65, is free and easy . . . the new Smock Look predominating.

It swings, high at the yoke, and is gathered, pleated or straight. Cluny collars, pockets, stripes and ruffles add a charming note to many of these "little swingers."

But to give you an idea of the variety of new fall looks, waist-

lines are also shooting from the hips with a flare of low pleats.

The adult enthusiasm for Op Art fashions is reflected in young designs too, as wiggly stripes, dizzy dots and wild checks run rampant on the back-to-school scene. Everything goes, with patterns literally out on a spree, vibrating, reverberating, oscillating and Op-erating in a crazy mixed-up way that youngsters will love.

Plaids are creating their own excitement too, they're bigger, brighter and better than ever.

Young coats take on new shape this season with well-seaming that gives them a really grown-up look. Fabrics are grown-up too . . . Shetlands, bulkier tweeds, worsteds, fleecy mohairs and funny, faky furs.

AP TV-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A worried-looking aide hurried into the office of his executive producer Tuesday, clutching a cigarette case.

The case, a prop to be used in one of several spy series currently in production, was really a concealed gun.

"I just don't know about this piece of business," said the aide. "He's supposed to flip the case open, but instead of getting a cigarette, he shoots the heavy."

"So?" said the producer calmly.

"No, won't we get a scream from the cigarette sponsor? They yell every time we don't handle a cigarette reverently."

The producer mused. Consequently, when the episode reaches television screens, the cigarette case probably will be a wallet or a cigarette lighter.

Automobile sponsors deplore stories involving traffic accidents. Aspirin bottlers want headaches avoided and, presumably, a manufacturer of wash-day products would avoid association with a series laid in a Chinese laundry.

On the other hand, pet food companies like to have animals, particularly those who eat the product, in the shows they underwrite. The breakfast food people think kids in the cast of their shows are just fine.

The female star of one series recently bought an expensive, sporty foreign car. It stands idle and hidden under sheets in her garage while she drives a low-priced American stock model. The auto manufacturer became a sponsor of her series and part of the deal was her use of the sponsor's product.

There is one story about a show that lost its underwriter when it was discovered that the star smoked another brand concealed in the sponsor's package.

Starting Sept. 13, NBC plans to shift major segments of the "Today Show" to color.

Ed Sullivan, whose shows normally come from New York, will make five in Hollywood next month since CBS has color facilities in the film city.

And Perry Como, whose specialties originated in black and white from cities all over the nation last year, returns to the New York NBC color studios next season.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is on the spot.

By Monday he must find a solution that will keep Republican critics quiet, save face for the United States, and get the United States, Russia and the United Nations off the hook.

This is the hook: The Soviet Union, France, Belgium, South Africa, Yemen and eight Communist countries owe $108 million to the United Nations as their share of the cost of keeping the peace in the Middle East and the Congo.

Russia's share is $62.2 million. Russia refuses to pay, arguing that the way the U.N. decision to send peacekeeping forces into the Middle East and the Congo was made was illegal. France takes a similar position.

But the United States has been making Russia its main target and insisted the Soviets must pay up or lose their vote in the U.N. General Assembly.

If that happened, and Russia and her satellites quit the world organization, only a shell would be left. This argument for months has made a mess of the United Nations. The United States has been softening its stand.

An American backdown, particularly at this time when the United States doesn't want Russia to get involved in the Vietnamese war, seems certain. Johnson's problem is how to do it gracefully. This is the background.

Originally the U.N. Security Council — where the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Nationalist China all have a veto that can kill any action — had the right to use U.N. forces to stop aggression.

But at the time of the Korean War the United Nations was able to intervene only because, when the Security Council made the decision, Russia was absent. The United States didn't want to get caught in a narrow squeak like that again.

So it proposed that the General Assembly, where all 114 member nations can vote but none has a veto, should be able to take action against a future aggressor. There were five dissenters on this: Russia and the Soviet Bloc.

In due time the assembly in 1956 voted to send a peace-keeping force into the Middle East and another into the Congo in 1960. Russia opposed both actions. France opposed the mission to the Congo.

But the cost of keeping the peace runs into millions. France, Russia and the other 11 objecting nations didn't pay their assessments for this cost.

France took the position the assembly didn't have the power to do what it did. Russia argued both actions were illegal and that only the Security Council, where it can use a veto, has the right to vote funds for peace-keeping.

But — Article 19 of the U.N. Charter says if a member falls behind for two years in what it owes toward U.N. expenses, it shall have no vote in the assembly. The United States demanded Russia pay up or lose its vote.

That was the American position under Johnson last year. Nevertheless, the United States didn't force an all-or-nothing showdown and this year its position seemed to soften.

Some Republicans in Congress began to attack the Johnson administration for what they called backdown. Yet, in this case someone has to yield or the United Nations may go up in smoke.

This is why it seems inevitable Johnson by Monday will have to work out some formula with which Russia can agree but still do it adroitly enough to keep critics off his neck and save some face for the United States.

The 33-nation U.N. committee considering the dues problem meets Monday.

There are over 8 million recreational boats in use in this country, which indicates that boating is the fastest growing leisure activity in the affluent Sixties.

Smock Look Predominates For Fall '65

The silhouette for young fashionables, Fall '65, is free and easy . . . the new Smock Look predominating.

It swings, high at the yoke, and is gathered, pleated or straight. Cluny collars, pockets, stripes and ruffles add a charming note to many of these "little swingers."

But to give you an idea of the variety of new fall looks, waist-

lines are also shooting from the hips with a flare of low pleats.

The adult enthusiasm for Op Art fashions is reflected in young designs too, as wiggly stripes, dizzy dots and wild checks run rampant on the back-to-school scene. Everything goes, with patterns literally out on a spree, vibrating, reverberating, oscillating and Op-erating in a crazy mixed-up way that youngsters will love.

Plaids are creating their own excitement too, they're bigger, brighter and better than ever. Young coats take on new shape this season with well-seaming that gives them a really grown-up look. Fabrics are grown-up too . . . Shetlands, bulkier tweeds, worsteds, fleecy mohairs and funny, faky furs.

Congress Opposes Move To Drop Russian Dues

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg is finding in Congress strong opposition to any abandonment of efforts to force Russia to pay United Nations peace-keeping assessments.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen said that as he interprets the sentiments of his colleagues they are "getting real tired" of temporizing on the issue.

France and 11 other nations also are in arrears on peace-keeping assessments. But congressional and other U.S. critics of the situation usually limit their fire to the Soviet Union.

Dirksen, who conferred with Goldberg alone, was asked if the administration was retreating from its position that the Russians must pay or lose their vote in the U.N. General Assembly.

He replied that so far as he was concerned he was thinking in terms of retaliation rather than retreat.

"We can foreshorten our contributions and aid to the U.N. and its agencies," he said. "After all, money talks. We are free agents to do as we choose."

Dirksen added he thinks the United States should call for a showdown in the United Nations.

"There is no use kidding ourselves or kidding the world," he said.

Goldberg described as "not accurate" a published report that he would agree to shelve Article 19 of the U.N. Charter which says countries two years arrears in payments shall have no vote in the General Assembly.

GOP Returns Kelly's Money

WASHINGTON (AP)—William Cody Kelly, ousted assistant to Republican National Chairman Ray C. Bliss, is getting his $3,000 back. The Republican Party doesn't want it—at least "at this time."

Republican Finance Director Longhorn Washburn said he reluctantly returned Kelly's contribution in the interests of the party and of Kelly himself.

Bliss fired Kelly, a long-time friend, on June 23 after former Finance Director Frank J. Kovac accused Kelly of rifling his desk and reading his correspondence.

The partly chairman said Kelly's action was "contrary to standards which I have established for my staff."

The ousted aide, a Cincinnati lawyer, had written the party a check for $3,000 just before he was fired.

bly. The report said that after the Soviet were allowed to vote they would make a voluntary contribution to the peace-keeping fund.

"This matter is still under discussion and our position will be explained fully and clearly when the committee of 33 convenes on Aug. 16," Goldberg said. The 33-nation committee was set up to study the no dues-no vote situation.

State Department Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said the U.S. position on Article 19 was under review.

Russia, France and the other 11 nations have refused to pay for U.N. peace-keeping operations in the Congo, the Middle East or both. The 11 are Belgium, South Africa, Yemen, Cuba, Byelorussia, the Ukraine, Albania, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland and Romania.

WILLIAM G. CURTISS

W. G. Curtiss Transferred By Du Pont

William G. Curtiss, a specialist in the technical section at Du Pont's Circleville plant, has been transferred to the company's textile fibers facility at Martinsville, Va.

Curtiss made his home here at Knollwood Village. He and his wife, Ann, have two children, James, 10, and Amy, 8.

Curtiss has been with Du Pont since 1951 when he started as a student operator at the former cellophane plant at Old Hickory, Tenn. He served as a foreman in manufacturing there. He later was transferred to the Yerkess Research Laboratory at Buffalo, N. Y., as a shift supervisor.

His next post was at the Circleville plant where he was assigned as a shift supervisor in "Mylar" manufacturing. He later was appointed a specialist in the technical section.

Curtiss was graduated from Vanderbilt University where he was awarded a degree in mechanical engineering. He served three years in the U.S. Army, with duty in the European Theater during World War II. He is a member of the First Baptist Church and served as a trustee and secretary of the Knollwood Village Assn.

Elke Sommer Enjoys Desserts for Well-Rounded Look

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elke Sommer, the curvy German actress, is a rarity: She eats desserts.

"I think a woman to be feminine should be round," she says. "In Europe men prefer a woman they can put their arms around and feel something besides bones."

"Even American designers — and the French, too — make clothes for girls who should be sent to camps for undernourished children. I have yet to meet a man who wants a girl friend built like a boy."

Elke believes that femininity is not all body and face.

"You see a beautiful woman enter the room and you don't look. You see a less beautiful woman—and you look."

"And nine times out of ten, that less beautiful woman you see will be well-rounded." Elke sometimes even has a second helping of dessert.

She is currently in "The Oscar," which she calls the best part she has had so far. She plays a dress designer.

"I have never been dressed so beautifully in a movie," says Elke.

Because of her blonde beauty and knockout figure, she has spent much of her movie career in scanty garb.

When Elke first came to the United States to make "The Prize," and interviewer wrote: "She sleeps in the nude, her left thumb in her mouth, her right arm cuddling a stuffed lamb. Asleep, she resembles a child. But awake and in fluid motion before the cameras, she makes Bardot look like an awkward schoolgirl. There are critics who deride her talent but her movies have earned her a half-dozen fur coats and three homes. She says she has no time for love but the European press claims that two men have committed suicide over her. On screen she seems kitten soft; off screen she possesses an iron will, a roaring ambition and the mind of an electric computer."

What did she do about the guy who wrote that?

"I married him," says Mrs. Joe Hyams.

Handknits Win Honors

Coming up soon, a new season of reading, writing and arithmetic, but mothers with school-age youngsters can do homework now.

Back-to-school sweaters are a classroom staple and women who knit can put their children on the fashion honor roll with the custom look of handknit sweaters.

This year's choice for the schoolroom set is the "great-look" sweater — husky, sporty styles set for action.

A special collection of ready-to-knit sweater designs sized for back-to-schoolers has just been introduced by Bernat. The yarns — in bright pencil box colors — include rugged robust fibers that knit up quickly into the season's smart shapes.

Styles include classic crew and V-neck pullovers and tailored cardigans for both boys and girls.

Words taken from proper names include decibel, (Dr. Alexander Graham Bell), Watt (Sir James Watt), farad (Michael Faraday), ampere (A. M. Ampere) and curie (Marie Curie).

Tiant Injured In Tribe Win Over Angels

CLEVELAND (AP) — Luis Tiant got the Cleveland Indians back on the winning trail with a three-hitter but the right-hander pulled a leg muscle in doing it.

The Tribe beat Los Angeles 6-0 Wednesday night as Tiant struck out seven en route to his 10th victory in 15 decisions.

The Cuban hurler said he pulled a big muscle in his right thigh in the ninth inning. Indian trainer Wally Bock looked at the leg in the clubhouse and said Tiant would be okay.

"I won't miss a turn," said Tiant, who'll probably face the league-leading Minnesota Twins in Sunday's doubleheader.

Batting hero for the Indians was Max Alvis. He belted a three-run homer that snapped a scoreless duel between Tiant and George Brunet in the sixth inning.

Alvis' blast, his 18th, came after Larry Brown's single, a sacrifice, and an intentional walk to Rocky Calavito.

Cleveland got three more runs in the eighth on singles by Fred Whitfield, Alvis, Vic Davalillo and Joe Azcue, an error and an infield grounder.

Davalillo, benched because of a hitting slump, returned to the lineup and knocked in a run with a single. He's now hitting .301.

"I'm glad he got that hit," said Manager Birdie Tebbetts. He's got a long, wonderful career ahead of him. This slump is an experience he'll live through.

Before the game, the Indians announced the purchase of Bob Tiefenauer, a 35-year-old right-handed knuckleballer from the Toledo Mud Hens of the International League. Rookie pitcher Floyd Weaver was optioned to Toledo.

The Indians' Ralph Terry will oppose the Angels' Fred Newman in tonight's game.

Bowers set down the first six batters he faced, three by strikeouts.

But in the third frame, River Oil batters began to find the range as a single and an error allowed two runners to reach base. They both scored.

In the fourth, a double and a triple scored two more and in the fifth three runs crossed the plate. A trio of insurance tallies was added in the final frame.

FOR THE locals, three runs came in the first inning as Tom Bowers walked, and then scored when Marion Long blasted a home run.

Rod Kasler followed Long with another four-bag blast. But from then on, Pippeth, River Oil hurler, had the game under control.

In the remaining six innings Pippeth effectively scattered six hits, allowing only a one run in the fourth when The All-Stars came through with a single and a double.

Pippeth fanned seven and walked three. Bowers started on the mound for the locals allowing three hits and fanning three.

He was relieved by Rick Blankenship who walked three, fanned one and allowed one hit. Rod Kasler finished the game. He whiffed four and was touched for three hits.

Reds Errors Boost Cubs

CINCINNATI (AP) — Larry Jackson held the Cincinnati Reds to six hits, while his mates climbed on loose fielding and inviting pitching to give the Chicago Cubs a 7-2 victory Wednesday night.

The loser was Jim O'Toole. It was his ninth loss against one victory, although three of the six runs charged to him were unearned.

"I'm not making excuses for Jimmy, but we have yet to play real good ball behind him," Manager Dick Sisler said.

An error by second baseman Pete Rose set up an unearned run for the Cubs in the second inning. An error by shortstop Leo Cardenas enabled Chicago to score two more unearned runs in a four-run fourth inning rally.

Only Frank Robinson had any real luck against Jackson, who brought his record to 11-14.

Robinson belted his 20th home run in the fifth and then knocked the ball into the bleachers in the seventh for his 21st circuit clout.

So effective was Jackson that he got the Reds to hit into three double plays. Cincinnati had only one base runner left, while the Cubs, who had 11 hits, stranded eight men.

In the Cubs' four-run fourth, Don Kessinger singled and was safe at second when he beat the throw on an attempted force out on Jackson's grounder. Ellis Burton advanced Kessinger and Jackson on a sacrifice, and both scored when Cardenas let Harvey Kuenn's grounder go between his legs into left field.

After Billy Williams' singled and Kuenn took third, Joey Jay replaced O'Toole. Williams stole second and both runners scored on a single by Santo.

The Reds are idle today. They open a two-week road trip at St. Louis Friday night.

Double Longshot Pays $2,671 to 8

CINCINNATI (AP) — Eight persons held $2 tickets on the $2,671.20 daily double payoff at River Downs Race Track Wednesday.

The two longshots who combined for the second largest double in the history of the track were Tarvey the Great, winner of the first race, and Jo Anne F., winner of the second.

Juan Tosses One-Hitter For Chicago

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Al Lopez may have solved the enigma of Juan Pizarro's on-again, off-again fast ball but the Washington Senators don't have a clue.

Pizarro, mystery man of Lopez' Chicago White Sox pitching staff, baffled the Senators with a one-hitter Wednesday night as the Sox won the second game of a doubleheader 7-0.

The Puerto Rican southpaw, a 19-game winner in 1964, had failed to finish in nine previous starts and had won only one game — exactly two months ago against Washington — before his one-hitter.

Pizarro's ineffectiveness mystified Manager Lopez until it was traced to a torn tricep tendon in his left shoulder late in June. He went on the disabled list for 30 days and the rest apparently has worked wonders.

Pizarro's fast ball was humming against the Senators. Woodie Held, who had paced Washington to a 5-2 first-game victory, got the only nightcap hit — a lead-off single in the fifth inning. The only other Senators to reach base were Don Lock and Don Zimmer, on walks in the first and eighth, respectively.

It was the third American League one-hitter among 13 pitched in the majors this season and all three have been against the Senators. Held got the only hit off Cleveland's Luis Tiant June 16 and Lock deprived Detroit's Dennis McLain of a five-inning no-hitter in a rain-abridged game July 3.

Elsewhere in the AL, the New York Yankees snapped first-place Minnesota's winning streak at six by edging the Twins 5-4; Detroit swept a doubleheader from Kansas City 6-2 and 5-4 in 10 innings; Cleveland blanked Los Angeles 6-0 on Tiant's three-hitter and Boston whipped Baltimore 8-3.

AAU-NCAA Dispute Goes To Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Young athletic stars caught in the squeeze between the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) and the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) speak their minds in a Senate investigation starting Monday.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., whose Senate Commerce Committee will conduct the two weeks probe, put some steel behind the velvet in a statement declaring the objective to find some peaceful settlement of the row over control of U.S. amateur athletics.

"It will be our task to see that athletes may freely compete without fear of sanction or retaliation," he said.

Magnuson's statement didn't mention this, but Congress could, if it chose, provide for the federal chartering of a new group to bestow the needed sanctions for domestic amateur athletic events, including those which lead to the selection of U.S. Olympic teams.

Many on the sidelines believe the White House has given its blessing to the probe, concerned lest the fight endanger the selection of the strongest team to represent the United States in Olympic competition.

The late President John F. Kennedy assigned Gen. Douglas MacArthur in 1963 to arbitrate an agreement between the NCAA and AAU, but the resultant peace proved unenduring.

Bingman '9' Tops Coca Cola, Will Meet Hawks for Title

The Bingman Drug nine is ready to meet The Herald Hawks for the Little League major crown after a 10-2 win over the Coke Jets.

The Drugmen were off with a roar as they tallied eight runs in the first two innings. The Jets scored their two runs in the last frame.

Namath Gets Pre-Induction Exam Notice

NEW YORK (AP) — Will Joe Namath is barking "Hut, Hut" as a $400,000 quarterback awaiting the snap from center or marching to that cadence as a $78-a-month member of Uncle Sam's team?

That became a pressing question when Namath, locked in a three-way battle with holdover Mike Taliaferro and Heisman Trophy winner John Huarte for the No. 1 quarterback position on the New York Jets, revealed Wednesday that he might be drafted into military service in the near future.

The 22-year-old former Alabama standout was scheduled to take his physical examination Tuesday at his home draft board in Beaver Falls, Pa., but his papers were transferred to Peekskill, N.Y., where the American Football League club is training.

According to a spokesman for the Jets, Namath now is scheduled for a pre-induction examination on or about Sept. 1. Induction would likely be imminent if he passed the physical.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Peckskill's draft board No. 12 said Namath would go on a waiting list and that it was "doubtful" he would be called for an examination in September or even October. By then Namath will be a resident of New York City and another shift will have to be made.

Also there is some question whether Namath's celebrated right knee, on which he underwent an operation last January, will pass the military test as well as it has the football tests in two pre-season games.

"It's up to the doctors now," said Namath, "and I haven't any idea of what to expect."

Glen Griebel, the Bingman catcher, led the winners eight hit attack as he hammered a double and a couple of singles. Rick Blankenship added a two-bagger for Bingmans.

Robert Courtright tagged the long ball of the day as he got good wood on a three sacker. Richard Speakman followed with a pair of bingles for the Jets.

Marion Long and Rickey Blankenship shared the mound duties for the winners. Long went into the sixth but had to be helped by Blankenship.

Mark Lutz went the distance for the Jets.

MORE JACK FOR JACK — Ramming home a 45-foot eagle putt on the 17th hole in the final round, Jack Nicklaus copped the $125,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic at Whitemarsh, Pa., and added $24,300 to his bankroll. Nicklaus, pondering over his score card here, now has won $114,000 for the year and next goes in the PGA championship at Ligonier, Pa.

Ben Hogan Challenges Modern Stars in PGA

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — A legendary figure from the recent but dimming past is challenging the modern day idols for one of golf's most coveted prizes.

Ben Hogan, a little thick around the middle and with thinning hair but still hawk-eyed and purposeful of stride, was no more than a lesser member of the cast today as the elite field played the first round of the 47th Professional Golfers' Association Championship at Laurel Valley.

The stars of the production are the younger set, glamorized by the television age: heavily favored Jack Nicklaus, power-hitting Masters champion on a torrid triumphant streak; South Africa's Gary Player, U.S. Open champion with the dramatic touch; Bobby Nichols, handsome defender of the PGA crown; Arnold Palmer, overwhelming popular choice on his home grounds; carefree Tony Lema, and smooth-stroking Billy Casper.

"I'm a part-time player now, from March to August," Hogan, who'll be 53 Friday, said after his wind-up practice round Wednesday. "And this is only my fourth competition this year. I made the Masters, the Colonial at home in Fort Worth and Philadelphia last week."

The small, muscular-armed Texan, winner of two PGAs and every other major title in golf, was pleased with his incoming nine after "a horrible front nine."

"Over-all I haven't been playing well. And this is a tough course for me. It favors the long hitters," the precisionist commented, then added ruefully, "but I never saw one that didn't."

And the long-ball is Nicklaus' forte.

Jewelers Halt Kiwanis Rally

Kiwanis was cut short in a late rally and lost to L. M. Butch, 12-8, yesterday in a Babe Ruth League playoff.

The Kiwanians were down, 10-0, through three frames when they caught fire. Butch went scoreless in the top of the fourth, but Kiwanis tallied three.

The Jewelers managed one in their half of the fifth and Kiwanis came on to record five runs. Good defense held both teams scoreless in the sixth but Butch scored in the last and stopped Kiwanis.

Jeff Steele picked up the mound win for Butch, going the distance. He walked three, fanned six, and scattered seven hits.

DALE JENNE took the mound loss for the Kiwanians before being relieved by Steve Richardson.

Marsh Barnes cracked a pair of doubles to lead the 14 hit attack for Butch. George Hill tagged a two-bagger for the winners.

Ron Bryant paced the seven hit attack of Kiwanis as he powered a pair of singles.

The Ohio Strongboy has won $44,300 with victories in the Thunderbird and Philadelphia Classics the past two weeks for 1965 earnings of $114,000 and has been impressive over Laurel Valley's 7,090-yard, par 71 layout. His tee shots and long irons — always outstanding — have been even more so, and his short game is on target.

Nichols, also a slugger and also going well, should be primed for a big effort.

Player, Lema and Casper are others in winning form. Not so Palmer, Laurel Valley's home pro and an idolized native of these western Pennsylvania highlands. He's slipped from golf's supermost echelon — but he seems keyed up for this vital test.

Laurel Valley's hilly course, par 36 out and 35 in, is drying out in the warm weather after a week of rain.

Twenty former PGA championships, including three-time winner Sam Snead in addition to Hogan, Nicklaus, Player and Nichols, are in the field of 167.

After Friday's second round the field will be chopped to the low 70 and ties for the concluding 18-holes Saturday and Sunday.

The finishing holes on the final two days will be televised (ABC).

EVERYBODY'S BOATING
By Frank Kuchirchuk, Central Press Writer

"BE QUIET" or you'll scare the fish," has been proved to be an old wives' tale. The Sports Fishing Institute, University of Michigan's Zoology Department and the Texas Fish and Game Commission have proved that noise, turbulence, exhaust and oil do not bother the fish. Also they have no effect on microscopic insect and plant life, essential for breeding grounds.

Studies also have proved that lures trolled close behind the boat usually are more effective than lures trolled far back. It is believed the moving water of the prop stream attracts fish in the same way that a rattle in a diver brings fish to feed.

Skin divers have reported more fish are attracted to the moving wake of the boat than are frightened by it. The Outboard Boating Club of America indicates that "while motor noise and wash may be bothersome to some fishermen, the evidence proves that outboard operations are not in the least harmful to fish or fishing."

Dodgers Copy Met's Method

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Playing against the New York Mets apparently can be as dangerous as playing for them.

The Mets began to rub off on the Los Angeles Dodgers in the eighth inning Wednesday night and Don Drysdale had to survive three errors and an ill-take-it-you-get-it routine before subduing New York 1-0 for his first victory in 24 days.

Drysdale was working on a four-hitter and protecting a 1-0 lead for the National League leaders when the Dodgers started to fall into the Mets' pattern.

John Stephenson led off the Mets' eighth with a grounder to first base but Wes Parker fumbled the ball for an error. Chuck Hiller, however, came through in Met style, bunting into a double play. But it was only seconds before Drysdale was in trouble again.

This time, Ron Swoboda grounded one to second base but Jim Lefebvre let the ball roll through his legs for an error. Right fielder Ron Fairly, backing up on the play, raced in — and also fumbled the ball as Swoboda took second.

Drysdale got out of that revolving door by retiring Johnny Lewis on a pop fly but the fireballing Dodger right-hander went in for another go-round at the start of the ninth when outfielders Lou Johnson and Willie Davis played Ed Kranepool's pop up into a single.

Charlie Smith played Hiller's role this time, grounding into a doubleplay and Drysdale then got Gary Kolb on an easy fly to end it.

The victory was Drysdale's first in his last six starts, lifted his record to 16-10 and increased the Dodgers' first-place edge to 1½ games over the second-place San Francisco Giants, who were rained out of their game against Pittsburgh.

Milwaukee remained three games back by riding Hank Aaron's 24th and 25th homers to

National League Parks Top Attendance Record

CINCINNATI (AP) — Attendance at National League baseball games is better than ever, says Dave Grote, the league's service director.

"As the season moved into August, the National League was running almost 650,000 ahead of its record pace of last year for a corresponding number of dates," Grote said today.

Grote, in an attempt to silence claims that "baseball attendance may be up, but the increase has not kept pace with the population boom," issued a comparison of NL attendance with the population growth.

Grote said the baseball attendance increase since 1920 is 142 per cent, while the increase in population is 69 per cent.

Grote said the estimated attendance of 108 million for the current decade "is conservative."

New ball parks have accounted for some of the increase, Grote said.

The NL reached an all-time high in 1962 with 11,360,159 paid admissions, eclipsed that record with 11,382,227 in 1963 and went over the 2 million mark in 1964.

"With prospects of another down to the wire pennant race, it's a veritable cinch that the Senior Circuit will establish a record attendance for the fourth consecutive year," Grote said.

Unlike other sports, baseball includes only the paid admissions in its attendance figures.

In its last year as an eight-club league in 1961, the NL drew 8,731,502. The 1964 total, with 10 clubs, was 12,045,190.

The two new clubs, the New York Mets and Houston Astros, drew a total of 2,458,370 in 1964, while the eight old clubs showed an increase of 855,318.

OHSAA Hears Violation Claim

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Charges that some football and basketball coaches have been violating Ohio High School Athletic Association rules were heard at an association board meeting here Wednesday. A board spokesman said no decision was reached.

The charges were leveled last month by Bill Byerly, former athletic director at Lima Shawnee High School. It was not disclosed whether he named either specific coaches or rules at Wednesday's meeting.

Jockey Needs Four Winners for 6,000

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Jockey Johnny Longden still needs four victories before he can claim to be the only jockey ever to win 6,000 races.

The 58-year-old rider missed the chance to ride his 5,997th winner when he came in third in the only race he entered at Exhibition Park Wednesday night.

Longden arrived here early this week from his home near Riverside, Calif., to pursue his 6,000th win.

Haverford (Pa.) College scored a touchdown in every game last fall but failed to win. The Scarlet and Black lost six and tied one.

making poor grades there's a chance his local board might call him up," said Col. Harry O. Smith, Selective Service director for Georgia.

Not all states plan to look at student deferments. One such state is Virginia, where a spokesman for the state director said, "We have issued no directive to review student deferments and hadn't anticipated any such directive."

Don Schomburg, who heads the local board in Amarillo, Tex., said, "The policy of this board is that if the youth is trying to get an education, we are going to let him alone."

Said Col. Howard W. Davis of Connecticut: "We may have been liberal in some cases where we won't be in the future."

In Ohio, Selective Service Director Col. Raymond E. Clouse said the matter of reviewing deferments of students will be left up to local boards.

He said the boards may find it necessary to review some cases but "there's not going to be any wholesale review of student deferments."

3 Youngsters On Injury List

Jerry Johnson, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson, Harrison St., received emergency care in Berger Hospital yesterday after he lacerated his right foot on glass at home. Three youngsters were treated and released.

Community Action Group Meeting Set

Several key points will be considered when the Pickaway County Community Action Organization meets next Thursday at Circleville High School.

The meeting has been called by E. G. Grigg, president of the organization. The session will convene at 8 p. m.

One of the agenda items will be a revision of the articles of incorporation so the organization may comply with exemption requirements of the Internal Revenue Service.

Additional discussion will center on changing the local proposal as previously submitted to the Office of Economic Opportunity. An effort will be made to comply with suggestions offered regarding initial application.

A PROPOSAL that the Pickaway County organization consolidate with Fairfield County will be considered. However, current indications are that local officers oppose this move.

Other matters will include steps to amend the constitution to provide six new positions. These posts would represent the areas of poverty to be served.
